SEEKING RELIEF ON THE ROOF.

The family shown in the photograph is only one of hundreds whose only refuge from the suffocating rooms in the tenements of the North End is the roofs of the houses. Groups may be seen on many roofs during the hot afternoons and many pass the nights there.

1 DEAD 7 OVERCOME

No Relief In Sight From Death Dealing Heat Wave, and Suffering In the Tenement Districts Is Intense.

One death and seven prostrations have resulted from the intense heat to-day. Not only is there no relief in sight but conditions are growing worse hourly.

The temperature at 11 o'clock was 85 degrees and still climbing. The humidity was 79 per cent., nine above normal.

Besides those persons who were taken to hospitals for treatment, many others have received first aid in drug stores or on the streets and have been taken to their homes.

Albert E. Tisdale of South Framingham dropped dead at 9:45 o'clock to-day on the gangplank of the steamer City of Bangor at Foster's Wharf. The cause of death was given as heart failure, superinduced by the heat.

The wind, which is blowing at the rate of fifteen miles an hour, brings little or no relief, because it is a land breeze sweeping in from the west. The local weather forecaster indicated early to-day that the temperature would probably be higher by several degrees than it was yesterday.

All over the country the conditions are much the same as they are in Boston to-day and in the rest of New England. From here to the Alleghany mountains the temperature is very high and the humidity far above the normal. Some relief, it may even amount to as much as ten degrees, is promised by the weather bureau soon—not to-day, however—but to-morrow, maybe.

Two Died Yesterday.

Two deaths and at least a dozen prostrations were the direct result of the hot, humid conditions which prevailed all day yesterday without a moment's relief. The maximum temperature was 86, and the humidity became as high as 85 per cent.

The temperature during the past three days would not have been excessive had the air been less laden with moisture, but when the amount of water in the air becomes far above what is normal, 70 per cent., people feel it greatly and aside from its being extremely uncomfortable it becomes absolutely dangerous to health.

DEATHS.

TISDALE, ALBERT E., aged fifty-three, of No. 7 Waushakum street, South Framingham; dropped dead at Foster's Wharf at 9:45 o'clock, from heart failure brought on by the heat.

PROSTRATIONS.

ALLISON, GEORGE, aged fifteen, of Lowell; fell on South Market street at 8:10 to-day, overcome by the heat.

PORTER, MORRIS, aged twenty-eight, of No. 275 Portland street, Cambridge; was overcome and fell at the corner of Washington and Franklin streets, striking on his head, inflicting a scalp wound.

THORPE, FRANK, aged twenty-eight, single, of the West End; fell at 2 o'clock this morning at No. 113 Court street and sprained his wrist.

DAMMER, NICHOLAS, aged forty-nine, of No. 29 Terrace street, Roxbury; overcome at Adams square at 9:20 a. m. to-day. Relief Hospital.

DALRYMPLE, CALEB, aged thirty, ice wagon driver; fell on Massachusetts avenue, Cambridge. Dr. Dwyer.

CARNEY, ALICE, twenty years, of No. 185 Putnam avenue, Cambridge; overcome on Western avenue, Cambridge. Taken in ambulance to home.

YOICK, ADDIN, baker at National Biscuit Co. plant in Cambridge; overcome at work. Taken to Relief Hospital; condition serious.

30,000 FLEE STRICKEN CITY OF VALPARAISO

All Ships in Chilian Ports Ordered to Rush Food to Sufferers.

VALPARAISO, Aug. 22.—The government and local authorities now have the situation in this city well in hand. The work of caring for the homeless earthquake sufferers is progressing rapidly and satisfactorily, while the dead are being reclaimed from the ruins and taken away for burial.

Thirty thousand refugees have left Valparaiso and gone to Santiago. The President has issued an order to captains of all Chilian vessels now in ports of the republic to proceed to Valparaiso with provisions and take away from the city all who desire to reach other ports. It is estimated that fully 80,000 persons will leave the city.

Supplies for Sufferers.

While there is continued clamor for food, the situation in this respect is in no wise alarming. Neighboring cities and countries are sending supplies which are being distributed with all possible dispatch. The government has issued the following proclamation:

"In this hour of adversity all inhabitants must know that every kind of resource is ready; that the city is well protected against disorder and that the police, naval and military forces are arriving in large numbers; that authority will proceed inexorably in any attempt at disturbance against property or persons, and that food and medicine are sufficient. Authority appeals to the energy, self-denial and patriotism of all the inhabitants for co-operation for public order and safety."

Thousands in Camp.

It is estimated that from 150,000 to 300,000 persons are encamped in open spaces in the city and in the suburbs. An order has been issued against camping in the streets. This facilitates the work of cleaning up the debris and removing the dead.

There have been no new quakes recently, which adds much to the peace of mind of the inhabitants. The fires have also all been extinguished, and the water supply has been renewed.

It is now established that the earthquake extended from Coquimbo in the north to Concepcion in the south. The cities of [illegible], Rancagua, Chillan and Talca suffered severely.

In Fight Early To-day Cuban Rebel Leader

BANDERAS IS SLAIN

KILLED WITH TWO COMPANIES EARLY TO-DAY IN HAVANA PROVINCE.

HAVANA, Cuba, Aug. 23.—General Banderas, the negro insurgent leader, with two companions, was killed at 2:30 o'clock this morning in a fight with rural guards which took place between Mariano and Hoyo Colorado.

The body of the general has been fully identified.

HAVANA, Aug. 23.—The army of Pino Guerra, flushed with the victory of yesterday over the loyal guards and the capture of San Luis, is now before Pinar del Rio, capital of the province of the same name. An attack on that city is momentarily expected. As the insurgent army outnumbers the government forces, the fall of Pinar del Rio is likely.

Throughout the island of Cuba new revolutionary bands are springing up constantly, especially in the four western provinces. In the eastern provinces there has been little outward show of opposition to the government, but dissatisfaction prevails there as well as in the provinces, where armed men are in the field.

Government officials still maintain their ability to meet the issue. It will require about a week for the Government to organize its forces to send them against the insurgents. The officials declare that when active operations against the rebels are commenced the revolution will not last three days.

Friends of the revolutionists on the other hand laugh at the statement of the government authorities. They say that if the insurgents are given a week in which to prepare the government will never be able to subdue them.

The enlistment of government forces goes on steadily. But the character of the new soldiers is not encouraging. Most of the recruits are young men and boys utterly without experience in warfare, who cannot be counted on to make much of a showing if it comes to actual fighting.

More complete reports in regard to yesterday's fighting shows that the insurgents did not win their victory without sustaining a loss of their own. In a conflict with rural guards under the command of Major Laurent, near San Luis, a band of Guerra's insurgents was defeated. An unconfirmed rumor says three of the insurgents were captured and thirty killed and the band routed.

Attempt on Governor's Life.

In other parts of Havana province and in Santa Clara province the insurgent bands, under the command of various leaders, are recruiting rapidly, and the movement there promises to become almost as active as in Pinar del Rio.

The boldness of the insurgents in coming to the very outskirts of Havana city in their operations shows more plainly than anything else the weakness of the government and its inability to clear even the territory surrounding the capital of enemies.

An attempt to assassinate General Emilio Nunez, Governor of the province of Havana, was made by the insurrectionists in front of his home last night. It failed, and the would-be assassin, a well-dressed white man, is now under arrest. He will not give his name, and his identity is not known.

The news of the battle with the rebels was received late last night, and the report that the insurgents were put to flight caused general satisfaction to the government. The officials were disappointed that Guerra was not captured.

While the government officials claim ability to cope with the rebellion, there are evidences of threatening increases of the insurrectionists.

It is evident that the insurrection was planned carefully for months. Simul-

STANDARD OIL BUYS MELLEN PROPERTIES

Disinfectant Companies, Which Supply Boston, Are Absorbed By the Trust.

Special to the Boston American.

WORCESTER, Aug. 23.—The Mellen Disinfectant Company and the Miracle Disinfectant Company of this city and the Amos Embalming Company of Paterson, N. J., all owned in partnership by Representative James H. Mellen and R. W. Amos of this city, were bought to-day by the Standard Oil Company and its subsidiary corporation, the American Consolidated Glue Company.

The papers were drawn up by Attorney Joseph G. Lane of Providence, R. I., for the buying corporations and by Attorney James Ryan of this city for Mellen and Amos. The considerations named were $1 and it is arranged that the transferred companies shall continue in business, but deliver their product only to the purchasing corporations.

The three companies sold are said to be capitalized at $10,000 apiece, but they are not incorporated.

The Mellen Disinfectant Company and the Miracle Disinfectant Company have been supplying disinfectants to the city of Boston of late.

2 POOL SELLERS FINED $50; FOUR DISCHARGED

SIX MEN ARRESTED IN READVILLE RAID IN DEDHAM COURT TO-DAY.

Frank J. (Sport) Sullivan of Charlestown and Daniel J. Marvin of the Revere House, this city, were fined $50 apiece by Judge Emery Grover in the Dedham District Court to-day for violating the statutes against betting on horse races. They appealed and were held in $200 each for a hearing in the higher court.

Sullivan and Marvin were among the six men captured by the police yesterday afternoon in a raid on the betting ring at the Readville track. J. P. Webster and Charles E. Lawrence of Boston, Alfred Rosenthal of Hartford, Conn., and John W. Robinson of Cambridge, charged with being present while gaming was going on, were discharged.

STRUCK BY SPLINTER IN A PLANING MILL

Charles Crane, an employe in the planing mill of Joseph Paul, No. 355 Albany street, was taken to the City Hospital to-day, suffering from internal injuries and a bad wound in his abdomen, caused by a piece of timber flying from a machine. He is forty years old and lives on Berkeley street.

LOGUE IS NOW HEAD OF PUBLIC GROUNDS

Because of the continued illness of Superintendent of Public Grounds William Doogue, Mayor Fitzgerald today announced the appointment of Schoolhouse Commissioner Charles Logue as acting head of the department.

Since January 1st, Mr. Logue has acted as head of seven different city departments.

DROPS DEAD FROM HEART FAILURE DUE TO THE HEAT

While coming down the gang plank from the steamer City of Bangor, at Foster's wharf to-day at 9:45 o'clock, Albert E. Tisdale, aged 53, of No. 7 Waushakum street, South Framingham, dropped dead after complaining of the intense heat.

He was taken to the office of the Eastern Steamship Company and the ambulance from the Relief Hospital was called. The doctor pronounced death due to heart failure brought on by the heat.

The body was removed to Brigg's undertaking rooms.

WAS SPANISH WAR VETERAN.

SALEM, Aug. 23.—Sergeant J. Irving Fuller, commander of Captain Jacob R. Peabody Camp, Legion of Spanish War Veterans, died yesterday, aged about forty.

CLERK WHO WAS HELD UP BY THUGS AND DIAGRAM OF ATTACK.

North Attleboro Clergyman at Bedside of Son Who Was Savagely Attacked.

NORTH ATTLEBORO, Aug. 23.—Arthur Green, Jr., the boy messenger for the G. K. Webster Company, who was murderously assaulted and robbed of $3,000 here yesterday, but who recovered the money, passed an uncomfortable night, and to-day his condition is regarded as being very serious. Dr. H. F. Kilby, who is in attendance upon the lad, reports that young Green was struck on the head four times. The weapon inflicting the wounds was probably a blackjack or small sling shot. One of the wounds was two and one-half inches long, and exposed the skull.

Father at His Side.

The boy's father, who is one of the foremost clergymen in New England, was beside himself with grief, and has been active in the search for the trio of thugs who assaulted and robbed his son. Mr. Green is the pastor of the First Emmanuel Church of this place, and the leader of the Holiness movement in New England.

The chase after the three daring highwaymen who held up young Green, who, as clerk for G. K. Webster & Co., was carrying the weekly payroll, in the middle of the town, is still hot, but the thugs seem to have disappeared entirely.

Employes of Webster & Co. were out all night scouring the woods where the robbers were seen to enter when they left the railroad track, but the search availed nothing.

Everyone who saw the rascals is of the opinion that they went toward Cumberland. A gang of Italian laborers on the railroad say they saw the three men running, but thought nothing of it until the news of the holdup reached them.

Mr. Webster himself went out during the afternoon yesterday and searched in the vicinity of William Henshaw's farm, without any success.

Holds Up Suspect.

A hired man working at the Henshaw farm saw a strange man coming from the corn field yesterday, and from the description he is thought to be the largest one of the bandits. The hired man accosted him and accused him of being one of the trio, but the fellow stoutly denied any knowledge of the affair and the hired man let him go.

The local police have been strengthened by a private detective named Cannon, from Providence, who will try to solve the puzzle which is baffling the authorities here.

The reward of $500 has attracted a number of amateur sleuths who are anxious to gain glory and money.

The police in all the nearby cities and towns are on the lookout for the robbers.

CUBAN REVOLT IS GAINING RAPIDLY

taneous uprisings throughout four provinces, covering 300 miles, of well-equipped bands, immediately upon arrest of supposed leaders, indicate a well-formed plot which was precipitated by the Secret Service discovery of the conspiracy. Leaders then flashed signals to the awaiting bands, who were partially warned ten days ago by the arrest of Charles Blasco for the alleged sale of explosives to the conspirators. Blasco gave bond and sailed the same day for New York. Since then his stock of explosive material has been confiscated by the government.

OFFICIALS JOIN INSURGENTS.

The insurgents include the mayors of several towns, two provincial councilmen, an ex-governor of Pinar del Rio, and province men of some influence. Rural guards from several posts deserted to the insurgents, likewise many police in small towns and some of Havana, taking arms with them. The Government is suppressing news, but the few passengers on arriving trains report the country paralyzed. Many well-armed bands are traversing the country recruiting. Trains usually crowded are practically deserted.

In the province of Havana many persons are in sympathy with the insurgents. In some cases whole communities appear to have been carried away by the recrudescence of insurrectionary times. The extent to which this will lead to open rebellion is still uncertain.

General Rodriguez, commander of the Rural Guard, said to-day:

Can Take Care of Rebels.

"You can tell the American people that Cuba is entirely competent to cope with the insurrection. The flood of rumors in all directions about the organization of insurrectionary bands in great numbers are not borne out by our reports, or, so far as can be learned, by the facts.

"The result of the encounter at San Luis is not known definitely, but it is known that we inflicted some losses on the enemy in that vicinity. The much talked of movement in Santa Clara province has not been encountered, and no insurrectionists have been seen there by our forces.

"We have equipped and sent out in various directions 200 volunteers under competent officers. We have plenty of Remingtons and ammunition for all who enlist at present, and more has been ordered from the United States. Besides, we have thousands of old but serviceable arms."

San Luis, a town of 3,000 inhabitants, on the railroad, about ten miles west of Pinar del Rio, was captured by the insurgents under Pino Guerra, a former Representative.

Many Killed and Wounded.

Previous to the capture there was a sharp and decisive engagement on the Feo River, during which a large number of men were killed and wounded. Senor Guerra had with him 300 men.

San Luis was defended by about [illegible] rural guards, fifty of whom surrendered to the insurgents and are now prisoners. Senor Guerra now holds the town.

Senor Montalvo was [illegible] in the capacity of secretary of war, says he expects to control the situation within twenty days.

"I have 3,000 men in the field now," he says, "and an increase of 2,000 men will be allowed by President Palma by a decree to that effect. Men are being rapidly recruited and equipped. Besides, we are organizing guerillas. The latter will reach fully 1,000 men within a few days. So I may say that within four days we will have 6,000 men in the field besides the volunteers which all the towns are organizing."

At the palace here there was a disposition to minimize the importance of the insurgents' success at San Luis, the statement being made that, while the insurgents were in possession of the town, the rural guards in their garrison quarters were still holding out.

Whole Town Rebels.

Another dispatch from Rancho Velez, province of Santa Clara, says that a band of insurgents has been organized there under Colonel Reinoe, and it is believed that Mendieta is with them. It also became known later in the day that practically all the inhabitants of the town of Aguacate have, with the mayor, declared themselves in insurrection against the government.

Luis Perez, the last Liberal governor of Pinar del Rio, has joined the insurgent forces in that province.

President Palma, in an interview to-day, said:

"The situation at first has been one of unpreparedness, as usual in such cases. We are taking time to prepare to cope with it. But there is no cause for alarm. The movement in Santa Clara province is small, in Matanzas it is trifling, and the bands in Pinar del Rio are smaller than reported and are poorly led."

One hundred recruits on the way to Guines had a slight encounter yesterday with insurgents, but no one on either side was hurt. An attempt is being made with 200 mounted rural guards and regulars to corner Quentin Bandera, who with 150 men is continuing his dodging tactics in the western part of the province of Havana. Three large bands of insurgents are out in the province of Santa Clara.

Gomez Under Arrest.

General Jose Miguel Gomez, who was arrested Tuesday, was formerly governor of Santa Clara province, and was the Liberal candidate for the presidency last year. He is expected to arrive in Havana early to-day. The government always suspected Gomez, along with other Liberal leaders, of conspiring or conniving at insurrectionary schemes, but there was no definite evidence until it developed that he was planning to take the field at the head of the Santa Clara insurrectionists. Gomez was living quietly at home when he was arrested.

Orestes Ferrera, who was General Gomez's campaign secretary and manager, and who was with him in New York several months ago after the relinquishment by Gomez of his presidential campaign, is here to-day from New York. A warrant is out for his arrest on the charge of conspiracy.

FUNERAL UPSET BY LIGHTNING

Lightning struck a trolley wire at Somerville yesterday afternoon, ran along the wire and down the trolley pole of an open Spring Hill electric car, half filled with passengers. The car was not injured, and the passengers escaped with a bad fright.

Storekeepers and clerks ran into the street, believing that a building had been struck, and attendants at the funeral of City Physician Alvah B. Dearborn, which was being held at the Union Square Baptist Church on Walnut street, about 200 yards from Union square, where the bolt descended, were thoroughly upset.

WAS OLD-TIME WHALER.

MIDDLEBORO, Aug. 23.—Henry G. Smith, formerly a skipper in the coasting trade and part owner of a whaler, died yesterday, aged eighty-three.

AUTO ROBBERS SECURE $600

ROSLYN, L. I., Aug. 23.—The gang of robbers using an auto as a means of quick transportation, to-day entered the home of C. C. Vernam, publishers of Ainslee's Magazine, secured $600 in silver and escape.

In order to reach the silver the robbers were compelled to blow open a safe. The noise attracted the attention of people on the place and an attempt was made to capture the thieves, but they fled to the auto waiting for them near by and escaped.

BALL HIT BOY; UNCONSCIOUS.

While watching a ball game at Cabot Park, Newton, yesterday, Arthur MacKenna, fourteen, a member of the Working Boys' Home Band, was struck with the ball, which rendered him unconscious.

IMMIGRANTS BEAT RECORD

The present month will witness the greatest flood of immigration for any August in the history of the Boston office. There have already arrived 4,824 aliens, and the ships now on their way here will bring the number up to 7,450. The largest number to arrive in August of any previous year was in 1903, when 5,176 aliens paid "head tax" at this port.

The Cunard liner Ivernia, due here the 29th, will land the largest number of passengers ever landed in Boston by a transatlantic liner. She has on board 2,380 persons, of whom 171 are saloon, 233 second class and 1,976 steerage passengers.

HOSPITAL GETS $650,000 GIFT

SPRINGFIELD, Aug. 23.—In the will of the late Daniel B. Wesson, the millionaire revolver manufacturer, now on file in the Probate office, public bequests of $650,000 for hospital purposes are made. Mr. Wesson died Aug. 4, leaving an estate of between $20,000,000 and $30,000,000. About $5,000,000 is distributed in legacies to children, grandchildren and great-grandchildren. The residue becomes a part of the estate of Mr. Wesson's wife, Cynthia Wesson, who died three weeks before Mr. Wesson.

Mr. Wesson's public bequests consist of $250,000 to the Hampden Homeopathic Hospital; $200,000 for the erection of a maternity hospital and $200,000 for its maintenance.

DIVIDEND RATE RAISED.

The directors of the Calumet and Arizona Mining Company yesterday raised the dividend rate, declaring a quarterly dividend of $3.50 a share.

DOCTORS SAY SHRINE CURE IS PERMANENT

Think Sight Is Fully Returned to Youth Who Prayed at Beaupre, Que.

GRATEFUL TO STE. ANNE

LYNN, Aug. 23.—Joseph Baldwin, aged eighteen, of No. 14 [illegible] street, is to-day receiving congratulations from his many friends upon the partial recovery of the sight of his left eye, which has been sightless for years, the cure of which was effected at the shrine of Ste. Anne de Beaupre, near Quebec, where he journeyed with other pilgrims recently.

Baldwin is a devoted Catholic and he feels that his good fortune is the direct result of his earnest prayers. When the pilgrimage was first mentioned he felt a call to join it and responding accompanied the others to this remarkable shrine.

While at the shrine, kneeling in prayer, he uncovered the left eye, which had been sightless, and before him he saw a woman clothed in a light dress and a hat with bright colors. Hesitatingly he uncovered his good eye and joyfully found that the left one was not at fault, for there was the woman as his supposed sightless eye had pictured her.

The doctors hold out every encouragement to the youth and feel positive that his eventual cure will be effected. Already the cloudy covering which hid the left eye pupil from sight is beginning to disappear and the whole eye is taking on a healthy look.

Baldwin is firmly of the belief that the cure was effected through the intercession of Ste. Anne.

His mother was so overcome with joy when the news of the cure reached here that she collapsed and has been in a serious condition until to-day. The doctors say she is much improved.

THRONGS FLEE TO REFRESHING WONDERLAND

Thousands Escape Sweltering City Among Marvellous Attractions at Famous Park.

ALL RECORDS ARE BROKEN

As the weather grows more uncomfortable the people of Greater Boston are journeying to Wonderland at Reverse in greater and greater throns. The hotter the sun, the more sticky, close and damp the atmosphere, the larger the crowds that go to Wonderland. For relief can be found at Wonderland, physical and mental relief.

The crowds all of this week have been really something wonderful. The management of the great aggregation of attractions at Wonderland, so easy of access and so close to and yet so delightfully removed from the city and all of its discomforts, labor early and late to make the stay of the visitors pleasant is possible. Last week was thought to be a record breaker, yet this week is making a strong bid to gain new laurels.

Crowds Start Early.

Proving the attractiveness of Wonderland as a place to go to just cool off if for nothing more, the early hour at which the people begin to flock through the gates is most conclusive. The ticket-takers no sooner take their places and open the enclosure to the public than the people, many of them who have come for moles and miles away, begin to drop their tickets in the choppers and prepare for a long day of care-free enjoyment.

Everyone who has anything to offer to the public in the way of amusement at Wonderland has been busy this week. The Shoot the Chutes, which did such an enormous business early this week, the day that the free tickets cut from last Sunday's BOSTON AMERICAN were good, has not recovered from the impetus given then and ever since the sailor boys who start the boats up the inclined planes have been kept hard at work all day, for thousands who had not shot the Chutes previous to this week are doing so every time they go to Wonderland now.

Cowboys' Paradise.

It is one attraction that never palls—never grows stal—it's always new. More people have ridden on the Chutes at Wonderland this week than in any other one week since they were open to the Boston public at that matchless pleasure resort.

The Wild West Show is still as popular as ever. Every performance see the airy, cool pavilion filled with enthusiastic spectators, liberally applaud the cowgirls and cowboys as they do their hair-raising riding in the arena. New features have been added to this show and as a consequence those who saw it a couple of weeks ago would be surprised if they were to go again for the spectacles are far different from what were even a few days ago.

The great Fire Show is still the peer of attractions. No matter how hot the weather the thousands who flock to Wonderland insist upon seeing the firemen fight the flames. This attraction is never old. New scenes and new acts are constantly being introduced in the part of the play that preceded the thrilling fight with the flames after the fire breaks out.

Climb Lofty Inclines.

Thompson's Scenic Railway never did so much business as it is doing right at this time. Passengers by thousands ride in the long trains that dash around sharp curves, climp lofty inclines and skurry along, high and wind-swept, for the long mile run. The scenic railway is the place of all places where one may get cooled off after a hot afternoon's sweltering in office, factory or shop.

The fascination of the beautiful Orient is gaining increased hold on the crowds that visit Wonderland every afternoon and evening. The beautiful Orient at Wonderland is a page, a faithful page, cut from the book lore of the mysterious East.

Here is a bit of the strange far-away East set right down in Greater Boston. There are Oriental men, women, children and beautiful dancers, who dance the same dances that the caliphs of Bagdad delighted in the days which have gone forever. There are the self-same camels, which, with padded feet, have walked the sands of Persia and Arabia when people knew nothing about America, when they thought that the earth was as flat as a pancake.

At Express Train Speed.

Hale's Tours are proving far more popular with the crowds than ever before. Here in the comfortable and cool imitations of genuine palace parlor cars the passengers gaze fascinated almost with feelings of awe as the cars travel and the scenery of the country sweeps by at express train speed. The cars even rock and sway like real passenger cars do when the trains are making top speed. The moving pictures show a trip to Colorado, all the wonders of the Rocky mountains, and other trips are made from time to time when the panorama is changed to suit the pleasure of the public.

The inviting Japanese village is still as popular as ever. The tea restaurant with its quaint Japanese decorations is certain to attract a full share of the patronage which the good natured crowds dispense so freely at Wonderland.

Girl Who Fought Villain in Mimic Love Gives in to Cupid, Takes Him as Husband

Waverly Youth Wins Hand of New Hampshire Maid in Spite of Playright's Plot

Ending of Stage Romance Is Greeted With Joy by Scores of "Spectators."

Special to the Boston American.

CLAREMONT, N. H., Aug. 23.—George Bateman, a villain of the deepest dye on the stage—and Miss Carolyn McCullough, who was a fair and lovable person in the same play, are now man and wife in real life. Contrary to the usual ending of the melodrama, these two [illegible] wed. In stage life, the playwriter having decided that it was best that they should not.

But Bateman, as [illegible], a scheming lawyer, and Miss McCullough as Alice Arncliffe, the waif, had gone too far in the rural play, "Up Vermont Way," to be held back. Cupid had the play writer beaten. Then the scenes shifted to real life, and the two wed. The ceremony took place in the Universalist Church here last evening.

Miss McCullough is the daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. John McCullough, and has resided with her sister at the old family residence on Pleasant street, and will occupy the same upon her return from the honeymoon trip. She is young, handsome and has a loving disposition. She was dressed in white silk and lace, while the maid of honor and bridesmaids were in white.

Beneath an arch of evergreens, ornamented by occasional sprays of goldenrod, she was bound in wedlock with the two-ring service by Rev. Walter Tuttle to George William Bateman, a young man formerly of Waverley, Mass., now employed in the office of the Sullivan Machinery Company.

The hundreds who witnessed the trials of both in the assumed rural life in the little country play are pleased that two who were then so decidedly opposed in their hearts' wishes are at last brought to a reconciliation.

Beautiful wedding gifts were tokens of the esteem in which the couple are held. After a ten-days' wedding trip Mr. and Mrs. Bateman will be at home to their friends at their residence on Pleasant street.

CLEAR FIELD FOR MORAN SAYS MAYOR

Whitney Is Out of the Race for the Governorship and Douglas Is Mum.

QUICK POLITICAL CHANGES

Henry M. Whitney has withdrawn from the race for the Democratic candidacy for Governor, giving as his reasons the silence of ex-Governor Douglas regarding the Whitney boom, and the declaration of former Congressman John R. Thayer that Whitney should be nominated for Lieutenant Governor.

Former Governor William L. Douglas declares that his name has been used in connection with the gubernatorial nomination without his consent or authority.

Mayor John F. Fitzgerald says that District Attorney John B. Moran now has a clear field for the Democratic nomination for Governor.

Mr. Whitney in his letter declared that he had agreed to become a candidate only after ex-Governor Douglas and Congressman Sullivan had declined to run. His decision to withdraw was due principally to the statement by ex-Congressman John R. Thayer that Congressman Sullivan should have the first place on the Democratic ticket and that Mr. Whitney should be content with the second place.

"It's Moran," Says the Mayor.

Mayor John F. Fitzgerald has added his part to the political changes of the day by declaring that the withdrawal of Whitney and the refusal of Douglas to be considered leaves the gubernatorial field open to District Attorney John B. Moran.

Ex-Mayor McNamee of Cambridge said so soon as he heard of the withdrawal of his candidate: "If it is true that Mr. Whitney has withdrawn his name and refused to be considered a candidate, then I shall be with John B. Moran. I would have been for Whitney had he remained in the field, but with him out of the race, and as between Moran and Douglas, I will be for Moran."

In explaining his withdrawal Henry M. Whitney said: "My letter to Chairman Quincy of the Democratic State Committee announcing the withdrawal of my candidacy was caused primarily by the statements from ex-Governor Douglas and from the Hon. John R. Thayer which appeared in the press this morning. Mr. Thayer in urging that I ought to run again for the office of lieutenant governor made it clear that he does not consider me the strongest candidate for the governorship.

"The Silence of Mr. Douglas."

"The authorized statement from Mr. Douglas, drawn out by a long and specific story in the press as to his willingness to accept a renomination for the office of Governor, that he would 'neither deny nor affirm the report that he is willing to become the Democratic candidate for Governor,' and his impartial reference to 'two other gentlemen who are contending for the nomination,' together with his silence when my candidacy was first announced, makes it impossible for to continue in the field."

Chairman Josiah Quincy said: "I am both surprised and disappointed at the withdrawal of Mr. Whitney. I do not care to give any opinion as to the adequacy of his reasons. I think that the conservative element of the party should now look to ex-Governor Douglas. I believe that he would defeat Mr. Whitney for the nomination and Governor Guild for re-election. I think that he should now permit the use of his name."

HISSED MRS. LANGTRY; DIDN'T LIKE HER PLAY

LONDON, Aug. 23.—Mrs. Langtry was advertised to give a performance in the pavilion at Folkestone last evening. The audience was incensed because the play was only a trifling South African episode, lasting twenty minutes, and a crowd followed her off the pier, hissing her. She had to be escorted to her hotel by policemen.

'AL' ADAMS'S BROKERS FAIL FOR $2,000,000

PATRONS ALL OVER NEW ENGLAND HIT BY CRASH OF POLICY KING'S BUCKET SHOPS.

NEW YORK, Aug. 23.—A chain of brokerage offices stretching from Northern Maine to New Orleans and numbering about 300 operated by M. J. Sage & Company of No. 57 Broadway, this city, and backed by the famous ex-convict and gambler, "Al" Adams Adams, are wiped out by the sudden rise in the stock market. The loss is estimated at from $2,000,000 to $3,000,000. The main offices here and in Jersey City closed their doors last night.

Adams is reported to have lost at least half a million in the Union and Southern Pacific jump last week.

Albert J. Adams, Jr., son of the "policy king," is attorney for the Sage Company. He has law offices at No. 57 Broadway. The elder Adams has been in Guanajuato, Mexico, since his release from Sing Sing. He owns a silver mine there.

The Sage Company, of which Maurice J. Sage is the head, had offices all over New England as well as in other States. The list of customers reaches about 250,000.

William Beverly, chief clerk in the offices in Jersey City, will probably be named assignee. Maurice J. Sage, E. L. Bradbury and C. W. Garnon, the managers of the concern, already are discussing the formation of a new company and the advisability of offering stock for sale.

"Al" Adams, when he came out of Sing Sing, started Maurice J. Sage at the head of the bucket shop chain, and also paid $1,000,000 for a mine in Mexico and advertised its stock for sale. His full-page advertisements contained the line that "the fact that the president of this company is Mr. Albert J. Adams is a guarantee of its stability and success."

Last year when the slumps of the early Summer and Fall came the firm of M. J. Sage & Co. lost nearly $2,000,000, but it never defaulted in payment to its customers, and the fact doubled its business. It was "in right" on the cotton market during the great price movement, and nearly recouped its losses of 1905.

Adams ran the bucket shop game just as he did the policy game in the olden days, with this one difference—that in policy he fixed the "drawings" to suit himself, but in the new game he had to take the chances of the market quotations.

Sage & Co. had no branch offices under that name. Any man who wanted to open an office to receive bets on the stock market was authorized to place on his sign "Correspondent of M. J. Sage & Co., New York."

PIRATES ROB CHINESE TRADE

HONG KONG, Aug. 23.—An alarming increase of piracy in Chinese waters is reported and ship owners and traders are urging that prompt measures be taken for his suppression if traffic is to be continued.

On August 10 pirates attacked the British launch Wingtat and carried off $500 and a chest of opium, after killing one of the crew and wounding three others. The steamer Kawping is reported to have been held up by pirates disguised as passengers on August 15 and a considerable sum of money taken after 20 of the passengers and crew had been wounded.

FORM NEW WAGE EARNERS' CLUB

Wage Earners' Club of Ward 23 was formed last night at Masonic Hall, Roslindale, starting off with a list of over 100 names, and the following officers were elected:

President, Charles G. Wilkins; vice-president, C. R. Williamson; recording secretary, A. L. Leeman; financial secretary-treasurer, James Cameron; sergeant-at-arms, M. B. Bryant; delegates to Central Club, J. E. Potts, Ed. Butler, A. L. Leeman, executive committee, Chester Brawn, J. J. Kenney, Thomas E. Picott, William T. Milligan, A. L. Leeman. The club is to meet the first and third Tuesday of each month in Masonic Hall, Roslindale.

GEN. TREPOFF IS POISONED

ST. PETERSBURG, Aug. 23.—A story is in circulation here that an attempt has been made to kill by poison General Trepoff, Commandant of the Imperial Palace, whose illness has just been announced. It is added that the General's cook and three other servants have been arrested.

According to private advices the Twenty-fourth Ural (Cossack) Regiment has mutinied at Samarcand, Asiatic Russia. The men arrested the officers and replaced them with men from the ranks. The commander of the garrison of Samarcand, it is added, has demanded the immediate surrender of the mutineers, the artillery has been called out, and the city is in a state of panic.

In spite of the wholesale arrests and deportation of revolutionists in the big centres, the daily chronicle of murder and robbery is not appreciably diminishing. The police seem to be utterly powerless to capture the perpetrators of the crimes. They do not make an arrest in one case out of twenty-five.

LEAVES FORTUNE OF $1,050,000 TO POPE

PARIS, Aug. 22.—Count Bertora who has just died at Monte Carlo, has left $1,050,000 to the Pope.

DRIVEN CRAZY BY COCAINE

Frantic from the effects of cocaine poisoning, Alfred Rineser, a traveling salesman, aged 26, married, with a home at No. 11 Bellmont avenue, Newark, N. J., was taken from the Hollis chambers at No. 247 Tremont street early to-day to the City Hospital. It was necessary to place Rineser in a straight jacket and tie him down. He was discovered in his room at 3:15 a. m. by the night clerk, who called assistance. It is not known why Rineser took the drug.

'DR.' SINCLAIR IS TRIED FOR GIRL'S DEATH

"Dr." John Sinclair, charged with causing the death of Annie Russell, of Charlestown, by illegal treatment last February, was brought before Judge Harris in the Superior Criminal Court at Cambridge today at the reopening of the case against him. Dr. Joseph B. Lyons, of Charlestown, was the first witness, and an attempt was made to discredit his testimony by Attorney Charles Rowley, counsel for Sinclair.

Rowley sought to show that Lyons had knowledge that illegal treatment had been given the girl, and that he had failed to report the matter to the police.

Dr. Loring B. Packard of the Relief Hospital, who cared for the girl when she was there, told of her physical condition then. Attorney Crowley tried to show from his testimony that the girl was suffering from acute Bright's disease as well as blood poisoning.

Several other witnesses are on hand, waiting to be called.

REAL RED HAIR AS PASS FOR SEASON

ELDORA, Ia., Aug. 23.—Always on the lookout for advertising features to call the attention of the people to its exhibitions, the Page County Agricultural Society has announced free admissions for all red-headed women. A shock of red hair will be accepted as a season pass, but the committee in charge has stipulated that the hair must be genuine, not bleached or wigs.

FEARED SELF INSANE; WENT TO HOSPITAL

William H. Cogan, who was for twenty years a police inspector connected with the local department and retired at his own request eight years ago to engage in the publishing business, walked into the Emergency Hospital at Coney Island last night and told Dr. Whiton that he believed that he was going insane, and wanted to be cared for. He will be taken to the Kings County Hospital and held for observation.

Mr. Cogan went to Coney Island a couple of weeks ago and had rooms in the Franklin Cottage. Until last night he appeared rational.

He is about sixty years of age and is married, having a wife in this city.

Members of the police department who are acquainted with Cogan state that for some time past there have been indications that the man was a victim of mental trouble. It is stated also that the publication projects in which he was interested were mainly the issuance of pamphlets concerning alleged conditions in the police department of Boston.

BOSTONIAN'S SLAYER SANE, BUT NOT FREE

Reports to the effect that Richard E. Preusser had been relased from the Matteawan hospital, where he was committed after his acquittal by the Utica jury of the charge of murdering Miles McDonald of Boston, at Albany, are premature, for Justice W. M. Rogers has taken no action as yet upon the application for release, which has been made since the doctors say Preusser is sane.

SAY THURSTON MUSTN'T SPEAK

The action of the Cambridge Central Labor Union in inviting Mayor Thurston to speak at the Labor Day exercises in that city under the auspices of the Central Labor Union was condemned by Electrical Workers' Union No. 103 at last night's meeting. It was asserted that the action was inconsistent with the vote of the Central Labor Union in July, declaring Mayor Thurston unfair to organized labor. A special meeting of the Cambridge Central Labor Union has been requested for next Tuesday night to act on the matter.

WEATHER MAN FLEES THE HEAT

WAR ON GRAFT NATION'S ISSUE, SAYS HEARST

In Interview in Chicago Record-Herald Declares Boodling Bosses Must Go.

MACHINES WORK TOGETHER

By Boston American Leased Wire.

CHICAGO, Aug. 23.—The following interview with William R. Hearst on his departure from Chicago was published in the Chicago Record-Herald yesterday:

William Randolph Hearst left Chicago for his home in New York, from which he has been absent two months. Before his departure he consented to talk on many subjects.

"I find the political situation exceedingly serious," he said. "It is one typical of the times and characteristic of the country. The machines of both parties are in the hands of men who make of politics a profitable business, and these men always nominate candidates who if successful will be useful to them in their business.

"Such men are naturally unfit to represent the people, and unworthy of the people's support.

"The situation here is similar to the one that existed in New York last Fall, and is similar to other conditions in other cities throughout the nation, for it has become an accepted principle in the business of graft that boodlers of both parties shall join hands against the honest rank and file in both parties.

Unite Against Boodlers.

"There seems to be but one thing for the rank and file to do, and that is to step out from under the shadow of these machines and make common cause against the boodlers, their enemies.

"With no third ticket in the field the boodlers are bound to win. The man who votes either ticket plays into their hands equally well. If either of the machines wins the system of graft wins.

"Our movement in New York in the last campaign certainly showed what could be done in uniting the people against the bosses and against the corporations. What we did here has encouraged the citizens to work for more perfect independence.

"The movement has wrecked the party machines and has frightened the old leaders into showing some consideration for the people whom they had thought bound and chained and incapable of action."

"It is said by some newspapers in New York that the Democrats will nominate Jerome and the Republicans Hughes. Is that your information?" he was asked.

"I know nothing of what either of the party bosses are doing there," he said.

Machine Rule in Either Case.

"It does not make any difference if either or both are nominated. The issues will not be affected. If Hughes is nominated the machine situation will not be altered. If Jerome is nominated it will be aggravated."

Mr. Hearst believes as firmly in the municipalization of public utilities as ever. When asked what he thought of Mayor McClellan's opinion that public ownership in European countries was a failure and on the decline, he said:

"The continued popularity and continual extension of public ownership in Europe is not any longer a question of anybody's opinion. It is a recognized and recorded fact. The railroads in Europe are coming more and more into the hands of the governments each day.

"Switzerland has lately taken over nearly all of her railway systems, and has promptly improved the service and reduced the fares and freight rates. Nearly all the railroad franchises were granted with the provision that they should revert to the nation.

"The telegraph and the telephones are already owned by most of the governments. In places where private ownership still prevails efforts are being made to place the utilities under government control and operation. Everywhere there are parcels posts, postal savings banks and general extension of postal system.

It Is an American Question.

"However, the whole matter is not a question of what is being done abroad, but what ought to be done here at home.

"Are the people satisfied with the kind of public service they get from private corporations, or do they want that service improved?

"Are they satisfied to be baled into street cars like so much hay and dumped out like so much coal?

"Are they satisfied with gas that does not illuminate, but does asphyxiate?

"Are they satisfied to pay double prices for half service in everything, and are they anxious to help a crowd of corruptionists to buy more Mayors like McClellan and take them abroad in their pockets along with their loose change?"

The Ideal That Does Not Exist.

"The plan of public ownership is not to be compared with ideal and non-existent systems of private ownership in which private ownership might conduct the public service properties for the full benefit of the people and might extend and perfect their systems required, and might pay their employes liberally and might rest satisfied with legitimate profit, but it is to be contrasted with the system of private ownership, which actually exists and which extorts from the public all the public will yield, gives the public as little as it will stand—that little, poor and out of date—underpays and overworks its employes and finally turns its enormous profits into watered stock.

"We have in America a system of private ownership of public utilities that steals the public franchises from the people, deluges them with water and then sells them back to the public—all for the profit of private individuals and the exploitation of the people. No American with intelligence has to go abroad to find that this is an unwise and unsatisfactory system. It is primarily an un-American system."

SEAMEN'S FUNDS AND BOSTON MAN GONE.

NORFOLK, Va., Aug. 23.—John A. Swan of Boston stationed here as agent for the Atlantic Coast Seaman's Union is missing and a warrant charging him with the embezzlement of $107 has been placed in the hands of the chief of police. Governor Guild Awards $100 to Winners of Mrs. Gardner's Offer.

Governor Curtis Guild awarded $100 in prizes yesterday at the Civic Service house in the North End to winners of the Mrs. Jack Gardner tenement window box and roof/garden prizes.

These prizes were offered two years ago by Mrs. Jack Gardner for the prettiest home garden in the North, West and South Ends.

Since June the competitors for the prizes have been carefully tending their window boxes and roof gardens, and throughout the congested parts of Boston these green spots of nature have brightened the dull red of the bricks.

The exercises were held on the roof garden of the Civic Service house on Salem street, with Meyer Bloomfield in charge. A children's orchestra from the Leopold Morse Home in Mattapan played the "Star Spangled Banner."

Then Governor Guild awarded the prizes.

North End—First, Mrs. Godutin, No. 7 Cooper street, $10; second, Teresa Gleason, of No. 2 Stillman place; third, Bessie Goldstein; fourth, Joe Ferri; fifth, Mrs. Petersen.

West End—First, Mrs. Powers; second, Hannah Goldstein; third, Etta Finklestein; fourth, Patrick Sullivan; fifth, Sarah Levatinsky.

South End—First, Mrs. Fair; second, James Hegarty; third, Mrs. Stanley; fourth, Edward Brown; fifth, Mrs. Fred McLaughlin.

ROB STORE THEN LOCK OWNER IN

The police are today looking for the two men who went to Caffarella Brothers fruit store in Malden yesterday, claiming they were inspectors on the watch for decayed fruit, and while examining the premises rifled the cash drawer of $15. They locked the proprietor in his store and made their escape.

The Best Part of a Picnic

Is the lunch, and no picnic lunch is complete without Pfaff's Lager. It is so easy to take along a few bottles, and the enjoyment of their contents is out of all proportion to the labor involved. And speaking of picnics, what is a camping trip if not a series of picnics? Don't forget to take a case of Pfaff's Lager when you start for the woods. "Clean in every sense of the word." That's a good description of Pfaff's Lager, brewed by

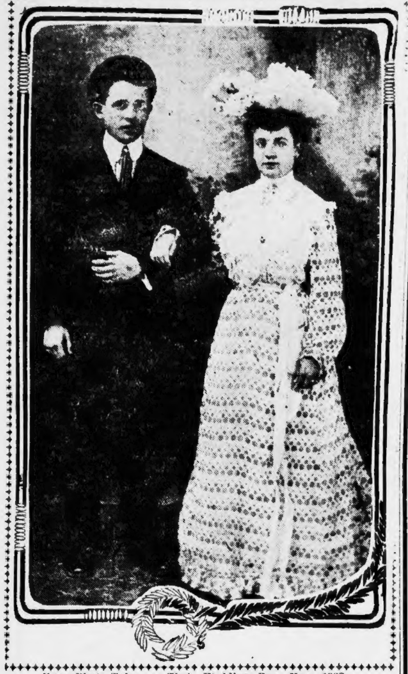
WONDERLAND, THE CHUTES, THE FATAL WEDDING

WITH

SUNDAY'S BOSTON AMERICAN

WED AT 17, BRIDE OF THREE YEARS SUES FOR DIVORCE



From Photo Taken on Their Wedding Day, May, 1903.

CHESTER H. AND DELLA KIMBALLE.

Says Husband Gave Her But Ten Cents a Day for Household Expenses and Alleges Cruelty.

Special to the Boston American.

WORCESTER, Aug. 23.—Asserting that her husband gave her but ten cents a day with which to provide for the house, that he drank, treated her cruelly and finally left her, Mrs. Della Kimballe of Brackett court has filed a libel for divorce against Chester H. Kimballe.

The Kimballes were secretly married in May, 1903, in Boston. They were then seventeen years old. Mrs. Kimballe now asserts that her husband's love began to cool a few months after the wedding. He received letters from other women, she says, and began to drink. On one occasion, she says, he threatened to shoot her and was stopped by a policeman.

Mrs. Kimballe also asserts that in spite of the fact that she worked by day to support her husband during an illness, nursing him at night, as soon as he recovered he returned to his former associations and habits, until December, 1905, when he left her. She blames her mother-in-law for much of the trouble between herself and husband and says her mother-in-law told her she was not good enough for Chester because she did not buy chicken for him during his illness.

Returned Pilgrims Tell of Cures by Ste. Anne

Welcomed by Thousands at the Station, All Praise Trip to Beaupre and Its Results.

"COME unto me all ye that labor and are heavy laden, and I will give thee rest."

THREE hundred pilgrims, who had journeyed to the shrine of Ste. Anne de Beaupre, seeking aid and comfort, seeking cure for their ills and disappointments, returned to Boston last night, and with the band were four persons who regarded themselves as particularly blessed, who had had their ailments relieved at the famous shrine. Joseph Baldwin of West Lynn, who since childhood had been deprived of sight, was able to recognize his friends. Michael Kelley of Jamaica Plain, a sufferer for years from acute rheumatism, marched briskly when he left the train. Miss Anna Morley of Allston, afflicted for years with hip disease, walked along the platform without her crutches, announcing to her friends and relatives gathered about her that she had thrown away her crutches at the shrine. A woman who was unknown to all the other pilgrims declared that she had been ridden of heart disease, and then hurried away, leaving her identity a mystery.

Many Went to Pray.

The pilgrimage to Ste. Anne's was conducted by the Rev. Father McCaffrey, pastor of St. Thomas's Church of Jamaica Plain. Last Friday the band, numbering 315, embarked. Friends and relatives surrounded them. Many were the messages that were secretly transmitted at that time, resulting in prayers that were said at the shrine two days later. Last night these devotees returned, bringing cheer to the loved ones and relating to them the story of miracles wrought.

The parting with the sacred scenes of Ste. Anne's was a touching spectacle. All the pilgrims lingered for one last look. Many gathered bits of the evergreen that grew about the place. Old men and young men carried these bits of leaves in their hats and women formed them into bouquets that they pinned to their bosoms. Then one farewell look to the edifice was given and they turned away, turned toward their homes, bowed in sacred reverence.

All along the journey from Quebec, down the St. Lawrence and then through the city of Montreal, the party clung in the religious atmosphere that they longed to impress upon the friends they knew would be awaiting them.

Through all the six cars there were happy pilgrims. All had received benefit; all had been blessed and all had found new hopes in the shrine they had journeyed so far to visit. As the train drew into the North Station the pilgrims rushed to the doorways.

Greeted by Hundreds.

Almost before the stop was made the crowd moved out. There were hundreds there to greet them. The pious spirit was everywhere apparent and friends of the church who had even no acquaintances aboard the train rushed forward to grasp the hand of someone who had visited the shrine or to beg a leaf of the evergreen the pilgrims brought.

In the dense crowd of people that surrounded the gate of the Montreal special there were a large number who had come to greet Miss Morley. Her father, Michael F. Morley, lifted her in his arms and exclaimed softly words of thanksgiving. Curious ones thronged about the young woman whose cure had been announced, and all were eager to see the result.

For nearly an hour the North Station was crowded with the pilgrims and those who came to greet them. The events of the trip were discussed, the blessings derived were told over and over again, and it was not until nearly midnight that the last one of the pilgrims to the shrine of Ste. Anne de Beaupre had left for his home.

BLIND MAN TELLS HOW SIGHT CAME BACK AT SHRINE

By Joseph Baldwin.

ONCE I was blind and now I see. Before I made this journey to the sacred shrine of Ste. Anne de Beaupre my left eye was entirely sightless. Now I can distinguish colors. I can see with both eyes enough to read large print, and I feel that soon the blessed saint will restore me to full sight.

It was not until a few days before I started that I decided to go to Ste. Anne's. I was talking with a curate of my church in Lynn when he suddenly suggested that I go on the pilgrimage. I hurriedly got ready and with, oh, what a happy result! The blessed saint has befriended me so graciously. When I arrived at the shrine I earnestly prayed. On the second day, it was about 11 o'clock on Monday, a strange feeling came over me. Soon I felt the power with more intensity, and then I realized that I could see. I hope to go to Ste. Anne's again, for I feel sure my sight will be entirely recovered.

CURED OF ACUTE RHEUMATISM AT STE. ANNE'S, HE SAYS

By Michael Kelley.

ON Sunday morning, immediately after our arrival at Ste. Anne's, I went through all the stations, all the devotions, and then attended confession. I have suffered for years from acute rheumatism. At the shrine of Ste. Anne, I offered myself to Almighty God and the Blessed Virgin and asked that through the intercession of Ste. Anne I might regain my strength.

Then came the miracle. My strength was restored and I felt as I did twenty years ago. I would like to return to Ste. Anne's and remain the rest of my life. I have been cured and I thank God for it.

Our First Monthly Remnant Sale

Starts Friday With Remarkable Bargain Prices in Every Section of the Store

A monthly remnant sale is to be a regular feature of this store's programme of events—a periodical, systematic clean-up of every odd lot and broken line—every stock that reveals traces of being handled or soiled—every nook and corner of the store will be subject to a searching espionage that seeks to locate and bring to light these offending members, which in themselves are innocent of any harm, yet in the aggregate involve thousands of dollars—short stocks that monopolize valuable space and embarrass regular lines. Every minute of the day a bolt of goods is sold down to a few yards—remnants. Every hour lines of wearing apparel become more depleted in size—remnants, again. Every day housefurnishing stocks exhaust themselves to a few of a kind—these are essentially remnants—and so it goes. It is this movement that brings relief—quick relief—immediate disposal is the objective point, and

The remarkable Friday Remnant Bargains will accomplish their purpose in a hurry. And remember some of the best bargains are in lots too small to advertise—Come!

NEW PROBE: 'WHO DRANK YORKE'S WINE?'

Municipal Light Committee Now in Hunt to Find 'Who's Who in Boston Tavern?'

REAL BUSINESS AT LAST

The Not-Yet-But-Soon Joint Special Committee of the City Council to investigate the question of municipal lighting has discarded near business and got down to the real thing.

It is going to drop municipal lighting, which has been hanging on by an eyelash, and investigate itself.

The new investigation is listed under the general head of "Who's Who in Boston Tavern" and sub-headed under the caption "Who drank up Charlie York's wine?"

Having settled the vexed question of why a study of municipal lighting requires an expense account of $300 for bubbling water, the committee will switch by easy stages into an inquest on the famous lighting contract now in force, the one which is to be arbitrated as soon as Mayor Fitzgerald finds a competent arbitrator by and for the city.

When the Public Isn't Looking.

Some have been unfeeling enough to insinuate that the committee in general and Chairman Bangs in particular despair of ever getting any serious results on municipal lighting questions, so it is going to make some kind or any old kind of a report on the old lighting contract and slide that in as a municipal lighting report when the long-suffering public isn't looking.

The quick interest now is in this Tavern bill, which City Auditor J. Alfred Mitchell can't see his way clear to approve. Chairman Bangs, who has made heroic but fruitless efforts to get a quorum of his committee corralled in one place at the same time, is going to call an executive session of the committee soon.

He allows that he has now gotten hold of a matter serious enough to scare the committee into getting together. He wants to know who ran up that $300 bill. It looks as though some of the committee had been giving the chairman the double-cross. He didn't get even a sniff of the bouquet of those Boston Tavern wines.

It Makes the Chairman Sad.

"It appears," says Chairman Bangs, pathetically, "as though some members had been at the Tavern, while I was rustling around trying to get a quorum."

Between this unhappy episode of the Tavern bill and the evident inability of the committee to concentrate its attention on the purpose for which it was created, Chairman Bangs fears that the fair name of the committee will be brought into disrepute.

So the committee is to investigate itself to clean up the Tavern cloud. And, to show that it can deliver results on something, it is slated to make a report on the lighting contract, vice its municipal lighting report.

In other words, if you can't find the pitcher, then lay down a bunt and beat out the ball to first.

ROWED 2 DAYS IN FOG; GO 125 MILES WRONG

Two Lost Sailors Picked Up After Intense Suffering from Hunger and Thirst.

The steamer Boston from Yarmouth brought in to-day the two fishermen, Harry West and Michael Ready, who were reported lost from the schooner Mystery on August 9 during a heavy fog in the South Channel.

The story of the two fishermen, who went for two days without food or water, while they rowed aimlessly about in the dense fog, thinking every minute that the boat would sink, only conveys a faint idea of the suffering the men underwent.

This is the story from their log:

"We had our dory nearly full of fish and, as the fog settled, we started to row in the direction we believed the schooner to be. After a four hours' row we decided we had lost our way and cast anchor. Alternately we slept and bailed the boat, which was leaking badly.

"The kerosene torch which we burned for a beacon exploded towards morning and covered us with burning oil. This was easily extinguished with the ample supply of water at hand.

"With the wick we caulked up the seams the best we could and rowed all day the tenth in the direction we supposed was land. We continued until 5 o'clock on the afternoon of the eleventh, when we were sighted by the Norwegian bark Nellie Troop bound for Buenos Ayres.

"Just as we moored alongside, our dory, loaded with the fish which we had kept intact throughout the entire journey, gave a lurch and sank about almost before we could get out of her. We found we had rowed 125 miles in the wrong direction and were exhausted from the want of food and water and hardship.

"Next day we fell in with the British bark White Wings, bound for Liverpool, Nova Scotia, and we transferred rather than go to South America. From Liverpool we went to Yarmouth, where the United States consul fitted us out with food, clothes and passage for home."

Captain Daggett, of the Mystery, accounted for all his crew but these two and it was thought both must have perished in the fog.

JUDGE EMERY GROVER.

Say No Justice Elected by the People Would Cast Such a Slur on Organized Labor.

Prominent labor leaders are still indignant over the insult offered John H. Donnelly, of Philadelphia, a labor union organizer, by Judge Grover in the Norfolk District Court.

Mr. Donnelly was on trial, charged with assaulting Pietro Senerchia, an Italian strike-breaker. In the course of the trial Judge Grover turned to Mr. Donnelly and demanded peremptorily:

"How long since you did an honest day's work?"

"I am an organizer of the Textile Workers' Union," replied Mr. Donnelly, "and I think I am doing honest work."

"Answer my question," the Judge said shortly.

"I am a carpet weaver, but I haven't worked at weaving for some fifteen months," replied Donnelly.

Donnelly testified that he had been in East Dedham for three weeks in the general interests of the J. H. Cochran's strikers and that Senerchia had sought to make trouble. Then Judge Grover asked the questions to which the men representing organized labor take bitter exception.

Labor Leaders Indignant.

Donnelly was found guilty, fined $25, and ordered to furnish $500 bonds to keep the peace for six months. He appealed and gave bonds in $500.

Labor leaders expressed themselves as follows on Judge Grover's action:

John E. Potts, business agent of Carpenters' Union No. 33, and president of the Boston Wage Earners' Central Club:

"No judge has any right to ask such a question. Organizers of labor work hard. They do not get a vacation, but a judge takes his whenever he feels like it and the State foots the bill."

Martin T. Joyce, president of the Boston Central Labor Union:

"Every worker in the trades union movement should resent such a question as a personal insult. No judge elected by the people would cast a slur upon organized labor."

Peter W. Collins, general secretary-treasurer of the International Brotherhood of Electrical Workers, and former business agent of Boston Electrical Workers' Union, No. 103:

"The judiciary of Massachusetts should be elected by the people, and the concentrated effort by labor to attain such an end has already begun in the formation of Wage Earners' Clubs."

Organizer a Hard Worker.

John E. Kennedy, business agent of Sheet Metal Workers' Union No. 17:

"When a judge has formed such an opinion of the work performed by the agent of a labor organization, what justice can representatives of organized labor expect when they appear before such judges? No member of labor organizations works harder than the business agent and organizer. His nights as well as days are devoted to the cause of the men."

Carelessly Lost Family Who Just Went for Soda

Wife Calmly Walks Into Station Where Metcalf Is Telling of Direful Loss.

Greatly excited, Arthur B. Metcalf of Troy, N. Y., rushed up to Lieutenant Jones at the Lagrange street station last night, and in ten minutes of rapid fire volubility spun out a tale of woe about a lost valise containing hundreds of dollars, also his wife and daughter, which the police in true Sherlock Holmes style solved in another ten minutes.

While working like an eight-day clock to arrive at the solution by the elimination process, Mrs. Metcalf walked into the station with a valise tightly grasped in her hand and wanted assistance in locating her husband. Instinctively the officers recognized the valise, and careful questioning revealed the fact that it was the valise wanted and did contain real money and lots of it.

Quickly the husband was produced and a family reunion took place. Mrs. Metcalf left his wife and daughter in the waiting room at South Station while he went to check the valise. Gone longer than necessary, Mrs. Metcalf followed and seeing the valise laying on the floor and no husband in sight she captured the traveling accessory and hurried back to her daughter unseen by her husband who stood near. She was buying soda when the husband returned. He was more mystified than ever at their disappearance. Thinking thieves were the cause of all his losses, he hustled for the nearest police station, where his troubles were straightened out in record time.

COLLINS SHAFT NOT ON COMMON

Friends of the late Mayor P. A. Collins will be surprised to learn that the art commissioners have refused to allow his memorial a place on Boston Common. This decision was arrived at several days ago.

More than $25,000 was raised, and a statue in commemoration of him was contracted for, and trustees were appointed to care for the fund. The trustees are Jerome Jones, A. Shuman and Thomas B. Fitzpatrick.

At the meeting of the art commissioners the matter of the placing of the statue on the Common was considered, and decided negatively.

The reasons given were that in future years other Mayor's friends might ask that memorials to them be erected on Boston Common.

Mayor Fitzgerald is expected to make a statement on the action of the art department.

CUMMINGS NOT IN RACE.

Senator Prentiss Cummings of Brookline has announced that he is not a candidate for re-election to the Senate.

TARS' JIG SAVED BATTLESHIP

HALIFAX, N. S., Aug. 23.—Aided by the cadence of several hundred bluejackets dancing a sailors' jig to the music of the ship's band, His Majesty's battleship Dominion backed off the obstruction on which she had grounded in the Bay de Chaleur Friday night, according to advices received here.

The Dominion was proceeding from Charlottetown, P. E. I., to Quebec when she struck, and passed over two obstacles and brought up hard aground on a third.

WOMEN BAR MARSHALS' WAY WITH HATPINS

Police Storm 'Love Syndicate' House and Dentist Seeks Mrs. Verrault's Teeth.

By Boston American Leased Wire.

NEW YORK, Aug. 23.—"Love syndicate" house, No. 323 West [illegible] second street, in which Mrs. James [illegible] Brown and Mrs. Bina F. Verrault played with hearts as trumps, was the scene last evening of many exciting incidents.

Two deputy marshals, when denied admission, broke in the doors. Gregory Allen, the butler, was soundly horsewhipped in the sight of his sweetheart. Creditors crowded the steps and rang and rang again for admittance. A dentist appeared to claim Mrs. Verrault's fine front teeth, which, he declared, were false and for which he insisted he had never been paid. An alleged nobleman who had been fleeced attempted to attack both women. And a grocery boy refused to hand over his wares without first seeing the color of his customer's money.

And it followed a day of distress for the fair heart collectors, during which Mrs. Brown was arraigned in the West Side court on a charge of grand larceny.

The deputy marshals were met on the threshold by Mrs. Brown and Mrs. Hamilton, who, armed with hat pins, resisted their progress and threatened them with dire harm. But the men warded off the thrusts and grasping the women by the wrists, wrested the hat pins from them.

ROOSEVELT TO FIRE GREAT GUN ON BATTLESHIP

President Determined in Whim to Furnish Feature of the Naval Parade.

NEW YORK, Aug. 23.—Although President Roosevelt's will is law in the United States navy, of which he is commander-in-chief, it is said an effort was made to discourage his latest whim, which is personally to load, train and fire a 12-inch gun on a battleship as one of the features of the forthcoming naval parade. As usual Mr. Roosevelt has won his own way and will display his marksmanship from the firing turret of the battleship Missouri on September 29, but it is said many naval officers have misgivings.

According to reports, these officers gave warning that the firing of a giant gun from the little turret of a pitching battleship is a much more dangerous and nerve-racking piece of work than any man should attempt who does not have to do it.

When all remonstrances proved futile, the Missouri was ordered placed at the President's disposal for a cruise, and George Philippo, champion gunner, was told to "prepare to teach the President how to shoot.

SHERIDAN TO LOSE RECORD

NEW YORK, Aug. 23.—James Sullivan, chairman of the Amateur Athletic Union, has received from the officials a report on Sheridan's remarkable throw at Celtic Park last Sunday with the discus. The throw was made correctly, but, unfortunately, Mr. Sullivan, in his anxiety to get back to work, took the discus with him, and it could not be found to be weighed or measured, so, on a mere technicality, Sheridan will lose this remarkable throw, as it will not be allowed on the record books. Sheridan is in such fine shape now that on Sunday next or at the track and field championship meet he will no doubt better the figures.

VOICE OF THE PEOPLE

Many Prominent Citizens Testify to the Merit of the New Leucodescent Light Treatment of the Osmo-Chemic Physicians. Free test Treatment and Medicine for Ten Days.

Melville A. Stone, superintendent of public schools, Reading Mass., says: "I would not be put back in the condition you found me for 10 times the cost. I feel wholly restored to health. My ailment was poor digestion."

E. R. Forbush, prominent jeweller of Lisbon, N. H., says: "I found the Leucodescent Rays a wonderful treatment, marvellous in its results. Under its influence I was soon able to attend to business, free from pain, and I feel well. Other doctors pronounced my case appendicitis and advised a surgical operation."

Mr. Wm. McConnell, well-known real estate agent, 170 Summer St., Boston, Mass., says: "I am thankful that the Osmo-Chemic physicians' new light treatment cured me of Rheumatism and Catarrh, and I am satisfied that it will do all that is claimed for it."

Mrs. Elsie Tobey, 173 Charles St., Boston, Mass., wife of the well-known artist, Louis Tobey, says: "The success of the Osmo-Chemic physicians' new light treatment was immediately apparent. It cured me of blood poisoning."

Mrs. Edward Reed, 7 Cherry St., Salem, Mass., wife of the well-known furniture broker, 21 Sudbury st., Boston, Mass., says: "I was saved from a surgical operation by the Osmo-Chemic physicians' new light treatment. Other doctors pronounced my disease Fibroid Tumor."

Mrs. Jessie Benton, 52 Pond St., Natick, Mass., wife of the well-known barber whose shop is located at 23 Washington St., Natick, says: "The new light treatment of the Osmo-Chemic physicians saved me from a surgical operation and cured me two years ago."

Mr. D. B. King, 242 Chandler St., Worcester, Mass., deacon of the Dewey St. Baptist church, says: "The new Leucodescent Rays of the Osmo-Chemic physicians cured a skin cancer on my forehead."

Mr. J. F. Hall, Boylston, Mass., says: "The Leucodescent Rays of the Osmo-Chemic physicians have removed what other doctors diagnosed as tubercular (bone cancer) disease of my right thigh."

Miss Emily Davis, 1 Davis St., Marlboro, Mass., says: "The new light treatment of the Osmo-Chemic physicians cured my mother of deafness, my sister of female disease and myself of stomach disease."

Leucodescent Rays

What the Leucodescent Rays do:

(1) The "Leucodescent Rays" not only increase the nutrition of living animal cells, thus promoting tissue-metabolism, but they are a powerful destroyer of germ life—bacteria, etc.

(2) It is the only therapeutic light that can be used with certainty of results and absolute safety in its application.

(3) That it is a pain reliever by its intense, vibratory, rhythm-restoring force upon the nerve cell.

Mrs. Amelia Johnson, 822 Main St., Brockton, Mass., wife of the well-known painter and paperhanger, says: "The new light treatment prescribed by the Osmo-Chemic physicians cured me of chronic peritonitis caused by the after-effects of childbirth."

Mr. Henry T. Hartwell, Greenville, N. H., engineer of Allan's chair factory, says: "I wish I had known of the Osmo-Chemic physicians six months ago. If I had I would have been saved six months of pain from lumbago."

Mrs. Alice Brookings, 35 Beach St., Revere, Mass., says: "When I went to the Osmo-Chemic physicians I suffered partial paralysis from lumbago. A few treatments with the new light treatment of the Osmo-Chemic physicians and I am able to enjoy roller skating."

TEN DAYS FREE

The Osmo-Chemic physicians desire that all the sick shall test the value of the Leucodescent Rays without money and without price. Therefore they make the following liberal offer:

All the sick who apply at the offices of the Osmo-Chemic Physicians, 18 Boylston St., Boston, Mass., before Aug. 26th, will be entitled to ten days' trial treatment, including consultation, examination with the perfected X-Ray and analysis of the urine, absolutely free.

PROTEST AGAINST SILER

GOLDFIELD, Nev., Aug. 23.—The referee question, though settled a few days ago, is now causing no end of trouble here, and strong influences are being used to prevent George Siler, the Chicago referee, from acting as third man in the ring.

With scarcely any argument whatever, both fighters and others concerned agreed to permit Siler to referee the coming battle, and arrangements for his transportation were being made when a halt was called.

Emphatic protests on all sides are being made against Siler now. Prominent members of the Goldfield Athletic Club are outspoken in their dislike for the Chicago man, and the protests are made more emphatic because of his decision at the Attell-Carsey fight at Grand Rapids recently. Other influences, outside ones, are now being brought to bear on the club, and the fighters, and unless Gans and Nelson insist that the man selected act, it is likely that a new man will officiate.

It is hardly fair that any protest should be made now, especially after the fighters and club managers have agreed. As to his honesty and ability, it must be said that there is none better in the business, and it is the belief of hundreds here that if Siler erred in his decision at Grand Rapids, it was not because he favored one of the fighters, but because the battle looked that way to him.

Siler has refereed more important fights than this battle, and it is certain he can act here as far as ability is concerned.

WRIGHT WITH WARD TO KEEP THEIR TITLE

NEWPORT, R. I., Aug. 23.—Two championship cups were lifted and another firmly fixed for at least one more year in the tennis at the Casino yesterday.

Beals C. Wright of Boston and Holcombe Ward of Orange, N. J., became the permanent owners of the doubles trophies by defeating H. H. Hackett and F. B. Alexander of New York, 3 to 1, while Karl H. Behr of Yale University put out of the all-comers singles tournament former Champion William A. Larned of Summit, N. J., who had but one more victory to obtain possession of the singles championship cup.

The doubles match was the challenge round, Ward and Wright defending their title against Hackett and Alexander, the champions of the East, and winning by scores of 6—3, 6—3, 6—3.

The Behr-Larned contest was in the second round of the all-comers' tournament, and the scores were 6—4, 6—4, 7—5.

Practically the entire second round of thirty-two matches in the singles tournament was cleared during the day, and a good beginning made on the sixteen in the third round. Except for the Behr-Larned contest there were few surprises, and straight set victories prevailed.

R. D. Little won his way into the fourth round by two straight matches, while Leroy, another favorite, went through the day without a setback.

ST. LOUIS, Aug. 23.—Either Dorner or Lindaman will be sent in to enliven the pace of this afternoon's game with the Cardinals. The chances are that Tenney to-day will place some of the regular men back in their positions, invalids or not. For a vaudeville contest, the makeup of the Boston Nationals yesterday would have taken a prize anywhere. The only regular man in his position was Captain Tenney. The others were scattered in all directions and the ground covered by Dolan at second, Brown at third and Howard at short wouldn't have filled a flower pot. It looked as though they were afraid the management wouldn't give them another pair of shoes if the ones they wore should give out. However, they knew best.

The Beans were the first to score at that. Dolan lammed one out for a double and scored on Pfeffer's single. The Cardinals took two in the second, and the Bostons evened up in the third, Dolan again making the circuit. The Cardinals tallied the winning run in the seventh. With two men down, Hostetter and Karger bunched doubles, the former scoring the winning run.

FIT AS FIDDLES AND DOWN TO WEIGHT, NELSON AND GANS EAGER FOR BATTLE

Crack Lightweights Will Now Do Only Easy Work Till Labor Day.

GOLDFIELD, Nev., Aug. 23.—It was made practically certain that there will be no hitch whatever to prevent Joe Gans and Battling Nelson from entering the ring on time on Labor Day, when both of the fighters reported to-day that they had made the required weight, 133 pounds. In the case of Nelson there was nothing surprising about this, but it had not been expected that the Baltimore lightweight would reach the figure so easily. In fact, Gans did not put himself under any great strain to make his mark, and found that it was only the result of his regular training that put him there.

The easy training that Gans underwent to reach 133 pounds has been a discomfiture to some of the Nelson supporters. Billy Nolan, the Battler's manager, was very sanguine that Gans would not succeed in getting down to the required weight, and when making the deal for the Dane to meet him, he was so concerned about this matter that he made it one of the principal articles of the fight that the weight should be taken three times.

Both of the pugilists were over weight when they started to train, but as the Dane had fought more often around the lightweight mark in the past two years than Gans, it was the belief of many of the fight fans that Gans was so heavy that it would weaken him to come down to 133. As a matter of fact, Gans tackled many of the welterweights when he did not tip the scales over 137 pounds, and he only weighed that much because he took no pains to train down.

When Gans first arrived at Goldfield the Nelson rooters were surprised to find out that he was close to the mark, and began to worry and declare that Nelson would be the one to have trouble in making 133 pounds. The Battler, however, was well acquainted with the conditions and immediately set out on a course of training that reduced him to the weight. This constituted about all of the really hard work that he intends to do in the course of his training. He will gradually ease up, and by Monday he will probably confine his work to light sparring, punching the bag and light exercise in running.

SOME OF THE DANE'S TRAINING STUNTS AT GOLDFIELD

Nelson now uses an auto for his early morning work. After returning he pushes an ore car for a half hour over an uneven track, and then takes a gallop on his broncho.

Three events are on the card for decision at the Readville Grand Circuit races this afternoon—the Ponkapoag for 2:10 trotters, 2:16 trot and American Horse Breeders Futurity for three-year-old pacers.

There will be no pool selling on the races, but "betting" is promised. It will probably be carried on under the system in vogue at the New York tracks. The bettor receives no ticket from the bookmaker on making a wager, and trusts entirely to the honor of the layer in paying off.

Every admission ticket will be numbered and the layer of odds will record it with the bet to prevent mistakes in paying a successful bettor.

IN THE QUARTER STRETCH.

Cochato went a good race.

* * *

Ed. Custer went a better one.

* * *

Poor Gay Bingen was lame.

* * *

Some are mean enough to say that Chandler laid Ed. Custer up the first heat. "What if he did?" said an old race follower. "The best colt in the Futurity stake won, and would have won in straight heats had Chandler gone out after the first one."

* * *

Col. A. C. Drinkwater expressed the sentiments of a thorough sportsman when he said that if he had been in Chandler's place with Ed. Custer he would have driven the race the same way. That, too, is the way George Leavitt and the rest of the syndicate felt about the race.

* * *

Come to think about it Chandler said last Friday that the race would be won in 2:12 or slower, and winked the other eye when asked if he thought Ed. Custer could trot that fast. If "Chan" weren't so popular there would have been a kick about a Western man coming on and taking away the prize, as it is come again another year is the general opinion of the local horseman.

Tough luck for Jimmie Brady! He was not only beaten with the pride of his heart, Gay Bingen, but the race showed him so lame it is doubtful whether he will be able to face the starting judge for some time. There is no better colt developer and driver than this same Brady. From the time he was hustling the youngsters on the Muster Hill Farm to the present time his reputation has been steadily climbing. He has made them, and will make a lot more.

* * *

Too much was really expected of Cochato. Considering the real training he has had, and the race he put up, ought to make his owners appreciate they have red-hot goods that is liable to head several summaries of Futurities before the snow blows against his stall door.

* * *

While it was thought Ardelle would win the Norfolk, yet it was considered heats in about 2:05 would do the trick. She was lame, but was on Argot Boy's neck at the finish of the heat in 2:08½.

* * *

"Long Shot" Cox! He and Argot Boy are certainly a wonderful pair. Away back when he was a butcher Cox got a rabbit's foot in a graveyard at midnight and has worn the Indian sign ever since. He was seen around town last evening with a Panama hat he anticipates growing to in a few years. It is rumored he intends buying a couple more brick houses in Manchester next Fall. None can say he doesn't deserve all he gets. The way the crowd cheered when he won illustrates the hold he has with the public. He claims the reason is because he always drives his horses to win.

* * *

It will do to keep an eye out on Hal C. from now on. He was associating with the leaders all the way. By the way, many wondered why Ed. Benyon drove him in place of Vance Nuckols. It seems he is in the former's stable and Nuckols only drove him in one race to accommodate Benyon.

* * *

Everett L. Smith was one of the spectators. Thousands in the past have read "Percy's" articles on the turf with enjoyment. He is now retired from active work, but it must seem odd for him to associate at the race track and not be in the press box drilling out matter.

* * *

C. W. Lasell deserves a world of credit for the improvement in El Milagro. From the time he bought him he has always declared he would some day show to the public he was a race horse, and now he has gone and done it.

* * *

Jenny Scott will turn a winning trick herself before many moons. In the final heat of the 2:12 trot she came through the field to second position in a style to command attention. Jack Crabtree has the banner string of trotters in the whole country by the looks.

PUTS $20,000 ON ANGUS P.

BURLINGTON, Vt., Aug. 23.—Senator George E. Whitney, of New Hampshire, states that he will place $20,000 on his new horse, Angus Pointer, who made a fine showing on the Poughkeepsie race track. He plans to go to Worcester, Mass., next month to witness the expected trial heat of Audubon Boy on the Greendale race track. He is willing now to race Angus Pointer against Audubon Boy for the $20,000 stake.

Senator Whitney is a multi-millionaire and his string of horses in his stable at Lebanon, N. H., are widely known.

M'ALEER SAYS SOX ARE SURE TO WIN FLAG

"I don't see what can stop the White Sox from winning the pennant now," said Manager Jim McAleer of the St. Louis Ravens at the Copley Square Hotel to-day. "Their run of games won is the most remarkable thing I ever heard of. Just think of a team winning fourteen straight games in a league as strong as the American. It's nothing short of phenomenal, and Fielder Jones and Charley Comiskey deserve a world of credit for the performance.

"The Athletics are all to the bad now. Waddell is pitching a poor game compared with what he has done in the past. He hasn't the curves, speed or control that he had last season, and the opposing batsmen find little difficulty in pounding him. Plank has not pitched since the Athletics left Chicago. He has a bad wing. The disability of two such men as Waddell and Plank is enough to handicap any team, and I guess the Philadelphias will have to be counted out.

"The Highlander are weak regarding pitchers, and I don't see where they fit to win the flag. The Clevelands have a good team, but I guess they're to far down in the standing to catch up before the season closes. Therefore our team is the only one left to beat out the Sox, and I don't believe there is any danger of us doing that, as we are many points behind the leaders."

Manager McAleer feels proud of the showing the Ravens have been making lately. They just won two games, tied one and lost one with the Athletics. Yesterday's game would have been won in a walk by the Ravens, according to McAleer, had not the players booted the ball.

The Ravens have signed up several new men for next season, but Manager McAleer does not care to make their names public.

There is not an injured man on the team. Bobby Wallace has a bad ankle, but it is not a serious enough injury to necessitate his absence from the game.

TANNEHILL WILL FACE THE ST. LOUIS RAVENS

Batting Order.

BOSTON.	ST. LOUIS.
Hayden, r.f.	Niles, 3b.

Stahl, c.f.	Stone, l.f.
Ferris, 2b.	Hemphill, r.f.

Jimmy Collins's braves will meet the Ravens to-day for the first time and they will endeavor to get after them as they did the first Tigers. The Mound City aggregation came here for three games with the Pilgrims, and judging by the brand of ball both teams have been playing lately the three contests scheduled in this city should be close and exciting battles.

The Ravens made the Athletics look like selling platers both in the series at St. Louis and Philadelphia, and they should be a much tougher proposition for the locals to beat than were their predecessors.

The old favorites, Charley Hemphill, Slugger Stone and Bobby Wallace, are still with the St. Louis team, and will delight the fans by their brilliant pieces of field work and hard hitting, as they have in the past.

The Ravens have a great staff of pitchers. Harry Howell, Jack Powell, Fred Glade, Barney Pelty and Jacobsen, the former Washington star, constitue the pitching corps, and they will undoubtedly give the Boston team a hard fight, regardless of which one of them faces the Rathskellers.

The Bostons are doing some tall batting these days. Hoey is good with the stick, as are Hayden and Carrigan, the other new men. At times Morgan, the former Georgetown star, has shown evidences of a good batting ability.

The team is fielding well with the possible exception of a little slowness on the part of Hoey in left, and the pitchers are rounding into good form.

The Bostons nailed the third victory from the Detroits yesterday by a score of 3 to 2. It was the best and most interesting game of the series, and the Bostons had to play good, heady ball in order to win.

Cy Young, the veteran of some sixteen years major league pitching experience, was on the rubber for the locals, and with the exception of the seventh and eighth innings, when he weakened perceptibly, he pitched fast ball.

Red Donahue, the former Cleveland twirler, was in the box for the visitors. He held the Bostons down to less hits than Young, but errors on the part of Captain Bill Coughlin at third and O'Leary at short, helped the Bostons to score their three runs.

Hayden, Hoey and Grimshaw did some good stick work for the Bostons. Hayden got a double and a single, and Hoey and "Grim" got a single and a sacrifice each.

The only misplay by the Bostons were the two made by Young. He threw wild to first to catch a man napping on one occasion and the other made a wild pitch.

NOTES OF THE GAME.

Three out of four from the Tigers is going some.

* * *

Tom McCarthy, who coached the Holy Cross team last season, closely watches the work of his proteges, Hoey and Carrigan, daily.

* * *

The Browns, with their redoubtable leader, Jim McAleer, are in town after trimming the Athletics for fair.

* * *

Old fans who follow the game every day of their lives predict a brilliant future for Carrigan on the diamond. His work up to date certainly has been full of bright prospects.

* * *

Cy Young is far from being all in, despite his long term of service on the firing line.

* * *

In the opening inning O'Leary made a great catch off Morgan's bat. He had to jump many feet in the air in order to bring down the sphere.

* * *

Young's stunt in the first inning is one seldom duplicated in the course of a baseball season. He struck out such hard batters as Jones, Lindsay and McIntyre.

* * *

Red Donahue has great control. He did not issue a base on balls.

STATIONERS ENJOY ANNUAL OUTING

By J. C. KERRISON.

The members of the Boston Stationers' Association are to-day enjoying their annual outing and fish dinner at Magnolia. They travel not like plebeians, but rather like the aristocrats they are, using up-to-date motor vehicles and starting from the Parker House. It was just 9:30 o'clock this morning when some dozen cars left the head of School street and started for Magnolia, the route lying through Cambridge, Somerville, the Middlesex Fells reservation to Revere Beach reservation. Thence along the new boulevard to Lynn, and on through Swampscott, Salem, Beverly and along the North Shore to Magnolia, where dinner will be served at noon. Secretary George E. Damon of the association had everything in first-class condition, so that there was no confusion at the starting point, or, for that matter, throughout the entire day.

Although there will be contests galore for high speed racing machines at the Atlantic City meet on September 3, 4 and 5, trade interest is already centring in the two touring car championships. Each is for regularly equipped stock cars carrying five passengers. The power limit has been raised from fifty to sixty horse power.

One of the races is free for all cars, both American and European. It is for a $500 cup offered by the Bureau of Information. J. E. Bristol of this city won this event in a Pierce at the Spring meet. The other contest is for the John H. Lyons Cup, a $500 silver trophy which must be won twice. It was captured last Spring by P. F. Rockett of this city with a Stoddard-Dayton. The winner last Fall was Charles Barbaruch of Philadelphia with a Packard. Entry blanks for the meet may be obtained at the New York office of the Atlantic City Automobile Club, Room 301, No. 20 West Forty second street.

* * *

The new model "C" Aerocar touring runabout has made many friends wherever shown. It is a splendid reality of the present ideal of a modern high-speed gentleman's runabout. It has many improved features, and the sensation of riding in it is that of skimming over the road like a hawk sailing over a meadow in search of frogs. It is the only silent air-cooled car on the market. It is started on the high gear and driven with a permanent high advanced spark on the throttle only, giving a range of from eight to fifty miles per hour by just touching the throttle lever.

* * *

A prominent resident of this city who has designs on the Sir Thomas Dewar trophy is at present negotiating for the construction of a special steamer, resembling in no small degree the one with which Louis W. Ross captured the trophy and the international championship at Ormond two years ago. This gentleman is in frequent consultation with Mr. Ross, and it is believed that some wonderful creation will result from their joint deliberations.

By the way, there is a communication at this office for Mr. Ross.

* * *

A commendable feature of one of the new foreign cars, of otherwise standard pattern, consists in covering in the valve stems with their springs with housings, comprised of flanges on the cylinder castings, fitted with removable inspection plates. This, coupled with the method of construction in other respects, secures the complete enclosure and protection of every working part, serving not simply to protect, but also to silence it.

The Best Letter on How to Keep House Will Capture the "Happy House" and All Its Beautiful Furnishings

Some Bright Girl Will Win This Doll's Home

Write the Best Letter You Can and YOU May Win

IT'S quite wonderful the number of good housekeepers that are growing up in New England. Every day brings more and more letters from little girls telling how they will keep house when they grow up.

They must all help their mothers a good deal and that is the reason they know so much about housekeeping.

The Happy family and their beautiful home are sure to find a good caretaker, which is a good thing, for Mrs. Happy would have to change her name to Mrs. Unhappy if her lovely, clean house should fall into unworthy hands.

You see, it's this way about the Happy House. It has been furnished with such taste and care that everything in it is of the best, and you can imagine Mrs. Happy's despair if she saw it all going to ruin for lack of proper care.

She has been teaching Marjorie and Dorothy how to do bedroom work.

This is how she does it:

The windows, of course, have been open all night, for the Happy family could not get on without plenty of fresh air.

As soon as they get up in the morning all the bed clothes are spread over chairs near the windows in order that they may air well.

Then, after the breakfast dishes are washed, Mrs. Happy goes upstairs with the two little girls and the lesson begins.

"First of all," says Mrs. Happy, "we will put away all the clothes left lying about and carpet-sweep the floor. Then while the dust settles I will wash the china on the washstand and you little girls can dry it."

Mrs. Happy tells them a pretty story while they work, and the time just flies.

Then she gives them each a little duster, and while she dusts the bureau and the high things they dust the chairs and all the furniture they can reach.

In the mean time the mattress has been turned and it is time for the bed making.

The little girls stand on one side and their mother on the other.

First of all, a soft pad or blanket is spread over the mattress to make it soft.

Then the under sheet is spread neatly over it, and well tucked in all the way round. It is smoothed until there is not the smallest crease.

Then the upper sheet and the blanket are put on in the same way, and, last of all, the counterpane. The sheet is turned over it at the top and the bed is all ready for the bolster and pillows.

Such a patting of pillows you never saw, for this is the part the little helpers like best of all.

When all is finished the blinds are lowered and the room left cool and dark.

You see how easy it is for a little girl to help her mother.

After all the work is done they all sit on the veranda for a while to rest, and the little girls have a glass of milk and a cookie to repay them for their work.

Could you make a bed and dust a room, little friend?

How would you take care of a house if you had one of your own?

Write and tell the Doll House Editor all about it.

The girl who writes the best letter will win the beautiful doll house. It is three feet high and has four big rooms in it.

Address your letters to Doll House Editor, Boston American, No. 80 Summer street, Boston.

Letters From Girls Who Are Trying Hard to Win

HERE are some of the best letters received yesterday from little girls who are trying hard to win "Happy House" and the "Happy" family; take plenty of time and see if you can write a better letter on housekeeping than the best of these.

CLEAN AND SWEET

DEAR DOLL EDITOR:

If I had your doll house, I would keep it sweet and clean. The first thing I would do would be to get up in the morning and get the breakfast; after I had made the fire and heated the water I would wake my husband, then I would give him his breakfast and send him to work. I would go and wake the children and give them their breakfast; I would dress them; I would send them out to play; then I would do my work.

GRACE CULLEN, 12 years.
No. 180 Rock Island Road, Hough's Neck.

SUNDAY DRIVE

DEAR DOLL EDITOR:

If I were going to keep house I would do all my washing on Monday. Tuesday I would do all my ironing and Wednesday I would do all my mending for the children; Thursday go out shopping and buy the children new dresses so they could have a clean dress on every day. Friday sweep and dust the whole house; Saturday I would bake pies, cake and bread. Sunday I would put on the children's best white dress and shoes and stockings and go out for a walk or for a drive.

MARION G. TODD, 11 years.
P. O. 102, Rowley.

KIND AND GOOD

DEAR DOLL EDITOR:

I'd try to be a neat housekeeper, diligent and saving, economical and clean. I'd keep my dishes and my floors clean and neat. I'd keep my stove polished and my rooms dusted. I'd be kind to my children and keep them clean and neat. They should have a lot of pleasures, and I would be a kind, good mother.

ELEANOR D. SCELES, 11 years.
No. 9 Cleveland street, Gloucester.

GOOD EDUCATIONS

DEAR DOLL EDITOR:

If I had "The Happy Family" I would keep it tidy so as to be always ready to receive callers. I should give my children a bath every morning, and after they had taken their nap in the afternoon I would take them for a walk. When my children were old enough they should have a good education, so as to be able to take up any business.

MARION RICHARDSON, 12 years.
No. 59 Winchester street, Medford.

RESPECTFUL TO OLD

DEAR DOLL EDITOR:

I would do my work regularly every day. On Thursdays I would take my children to ride. I would send my children to Sunday school, and Sunday afternoon I would read and tell stories. I would also teach my children to be respectful and kind to their parents, and to the poor and aged people.

EDITH M. ELLS, 12 years.
Elm street, Hanover.

KIND TO ANIMALS

DEAR DOLL EDITOR:

I would get up early every morning, air all the rooms, get breakfast and get the children out to play. Have Monday for washing, Tuesday for ironing, Wednesday for dusting and cleaning up, Thursday for mending and making calls, Friday for sweeping, Saturday for baking and getting ready for Sunday. Sunday go to church in the morning. After dinner take the children out for a walk. Would teach my children to be kind to dumb animals and old people. Should teach them to mind when they are small.

MABEL CARROLL, eleven years.
Jackson avenue, Winchendon.

How to Win the Doll's House

HOW would you keep house?

How would treat your children?

The best answer to these questions wins this beautiful doll's house with all its furnishings.

Write on one side of the paper.

Do not write more than one hundred words.

Give age, name and address in full, and write plainly.

Address Doll's House Editor, care of the Boston American, No. 80 Summer street.

BEANS SATURDAY

DEAR DOLL EDITOR:

Get up early and get hubby to work. Then fix the beds and wash the children. Give them their porridge, and let them play, while I wash the dishes. Saturday I'd do all the work, with all the older girls helping me. Have beans on Saturday.

If I had twins I'd name them Victor and Victoria. Teach my children to be good, unselfish Christians, and go to church. Read them a verse every night. Teach them housekeeping; not give them much sweetmeats. Have them say prayers. I can only say I'm anxious to win the house. Good by.

MARION ELICE CATE, 11 years.
Salisbury Beach.

PUT 'EM TO BED

DEAR DOLL EDITOR:

I would put clean clothes on all the children every day; get them something to eat, put them out in the yard to play, then I would clean all the house. When that is done I would go out and stay with them all day long. And at night I would take off their clothes and put them to bed.

Unselfishness and Cheerfulness Are Great Beauty Aids

By Beatrice Fairfax

UP in the mountains, where I have been spending a few weeks, I have come in daily contact with a woman of about sixty years of age.

She has the most beautiful, serence face I have ever seen.

She is unmarried, and more than half of her life has been spent in caring for a querulous invalid.

Morning, noon and night she is the loving, cheerful attendant of a nervous and very often irritable old lady. She gives attention and interest that no money could pay for.

It never seems to dawn upon her that her life is one long sacrifice of self.

She is full of gentle fun, and loves to talk with young people whenever here pressing duties give her an opportunity.

Everybody loves to talk to her—she is so restful and sympathetic.

Gracious and Charming

THERE is a woman, girls, who, under the most trying circumstances, has made the very most of herself.

She has been denied many of the pleasures of life, but instead of sitting down and repining over her hard lot she has cheerfully accetped it and turned it to good account.

She might have been morose and discontented, instead of which she is gracious and charming.

She has no husband, no children, and is what the world terms an "old maid," but I have never met a more tender, more loveable, womanly woman. She has learned to perfection the art of growing old gracefully.

I sincerely trust that most of my girl readers will marry and lead happy, busy lives as wives and mothers.

But even if they do not marry there is no necessity that they should become self-absorbed, peevish women.

To be an old maid is no disgrace; to be a selfish, sour old maid is.

Greatest of Beautifiers

UNSELFISHNESS is a beautiful quality, and it reaps a great harvest of love.

The selfish woman, whether married or single, cannot help but grow narrow and self-centred.

The right way to live and benefit yourself as well as those about you is to be gentle, unselfish and cheerful. Those three qualities are the greatest of all beautifiers.

Expression goes farther toward making a face plain or lovely than features or coloring.

No matter how exquisite a complexion or regular the features, no face can be beautiful if marred by discontent and selfishness.

If you are pretty it is a great shame to spoil your looks by a poor expression.

If you are plain, it is absolutely necessary that you should make your expression as pleasant as possible.

Do not let circumstances conquer you; conquer them, and even though your life may often seem dull and hard remember that by making the best of things you are developing your character and making yourself a better, sweeter woman.

Advice to Anxious Sweethearts

By Beatrice Fairfax

NOT SUFFICIENT REASON

DEAR MISS FAIRFAX:

I am a girl of seventeen and have been keeping company for a short time without my parents having been aware of same. Now that same has been discovered they object to my going out on the ground that I have two sisters my seniors, one of whom is engaged, the other not, as yet.

R.

I DO not see that the fact of your elder sister being disengaged should be a bar to your becoming engaged to the young man. However, it is always wiser to be honest in such matters, and it would have been much better had you not kept it a secret from your parents.

A SENSIBLE LETTER

DEAR MISS FAIRFAX:

I am a young girl and have been keeping company with a young man for almost two years. A year ago he went out West to seek his fortune, and during that time wrote me every two weeks and sometimes more often. But for the past two months I have received no letters from him. Before he went away he told me he loved me, but never asked me to be his wife. But he gave me to understand in his letters that he would do so when he could see his way clear to make me happy. I love him very much and would feel very badly if I should never hear from him again. But I am not a girl who will darken my future if I thought he did not love me as he thought he did.

Do you think he has decided I am not the girl for him, and he made up his mind not to take any more of my time? I think I have given him plenty of time to write, don't you, Miss Fairfax? Now what I want your advice on is this: Shall I write and ask him for my picture, as I have learned since he is away that he has quite a number of girls' pictures, and I would not like mine to be among them?

UNHAPPY.

I LIKE your letter exceedingly. It is so sensible and womanly. You would be quite justified in asking for your photograph. There is, of course, always the possibility of his being ill or unable to write for some reason or other. You may have an explanation from him. But if you do not hear from him do not let it spoil your life. For if after all your friendship he treats you so badly as to drop you without one word of explanation he is not worth fretting over.

Of course, I know that the mere fact that a man is not worthy of her love will not keep a woman from fretting for him, but I think you are too fine and brave to let one man's perfidy spoil your life. I sincerely hope that you will have a satisfactory explanation of his silence.

ROUGE AND ROSES.

ONE knows who has worn roses that these charming little flowers fade with every strong ray of sunshine.

If one is to enjoy her Summer she cannot always be thinking of her hat trimming, and before she realizes these same delicately-tinted flowers are delicately tinted no more, but plain and unattractive white.

The remedy lies in a bottle of liquid rouge, which may be applied to the flowers, and if the petals are curled while damp the flowers may come out looking as though newly picked. Not only the woman who goes away but she who stays at home may find the idea an economical one.

B-r-r! Have You Had the Summer Shivers?

WHEN in the height of these piping Summer days one feels a little shiver start somewhere and swiftly mount over the spinal vertebrae until it dissipates itself in a well-developed, old-fashioned December shiver all over the shoulders and nape of the neck—one has got it, this new-fangled disease that has lately come to keep people from the monotony of merely hay fever and influenza.

If that strangely untimely shiver be further accompanied by a parchedness of the throat and nasal passages, a cracky feeling of the lips, dryness of the eyes almost amounting to pain, and hot flushes chasing one another sportively all around one's shoulders and chest, then there can be no doubt that one is "in" for the latest thing in uncatalogued misery—a Summer cold.

"The Summer cold may be due to a lowered vitality or carelessness in feeding," said a well-known doctor.

In reply to questions he said he believed the Summer cold was a distinct disease; it strongly resembled its Winter congener; came in much the same way, ran its course similarly, and wound up in like manner.

Probably the best of all cures in such conditions is what is called the "gold miner's cure." This is as follows: Before retiring for the night steep the feet and legs half way to the knees in a bucket of water as hot as can be borne; the patient at the same time drinks, as hot as he can swallow, a pint of lemonade, sweetened.

Just before rolling in under extra blanketing, to induce perspiration, take two or three grains of quinine.

In the morning a long, refrigerant drink, a good rubdown with a wet towel, no breakfast, and by luncheon time the patient could almost tackle a pair of grilled gate hinges.

This cure has been proved successful so often among the miners as to be looked upon by them as infallible.

"SHADOWS OF NEW YORK"

Copyright, 1906, by American-Journal-Examiner.

"AND I do so wish you hadn't happened to fix on Wednesday—of course, I'm glad to see you; you know that Mr. Bywater had got tickets for a matinee at a New Rochelle theatre, where they are playing "The Great Ruby."

"I wanted awfully to see that; now I shan't be able. I was sorry when Lorry said you fixed it for Wednesday."

"But Freda, Freda!" Olga broke out. Had her sister no thought but for herself, her own pleasures? "Don't you realize—can't you realize—my terrible position? That I'm living in hiding, a hunted creature—living day by day on the brink of an abyss, in danger of being dragged off to jail at any time, to be tried for a crime I am guiltless of!" she cried in a low, strained voice, full of pain, looking into Freda's eyes.

Freda carefully smoothed out the creases in her glove; then drew it off and admired her plump white hand.

"How stupid of you! Of course I do, and I'm sorry, ever so sorry. How funny and different those blue spectacles make you look, don't they, Olga? I shouldn't have known you!" cried Freda, with a little laugh.

Unsafe Ground

"I should hate to have to wear such disfiguring things; nothing would induce me to wear them. They quite spoil you, Olga, those glasses and that funny gray——"

"Hush!" whispered Olga, apprehensively. "Try to remember not to mention my name. Don't refer to those things by which I try to mask my identity. It isn't safe."

It was foolish of her to be wounded—Olga felt that; but she was wounded by Freda's manifest indifference to her situation; she had always cared for this girl with almost a mother's tenderness.

As she looked into Freda's face now, even after her appeal, it remained unmoved. There was no trace of sympathy or feeling there.

Freda's voice had been the petulant tones of a disappointed child as she spoke of the matinee to which she was to have gone. Petulance, amusement and a touch of vanity—all these emotions her face expressed—only these.

But at least Freda could not have been the woman of whom Armadale spoke. One could not connect so terrible a deed with a nature so irresponsible, frivolous and shallow.

Even before Olga came to the primary object of this meeting she felt a great deepening sense of relief. Armadale had been wrong.

"What are we going to do?" asked Freda. "We can't sit in this waiting room all day. Can't we walk outside? I do wish you and I were back again in a flat; it was ever so much better fun. I do think Lorry's an old frump——"

Olga rose abruptly. The talk jarred on her—this sneering reference to her old friend, who had generously given Freda a home in the hour of her trouble.

"I won't listen to you, Freda, when you talk like that!" she cried. "Try to imagine what would have become of you if that friend's kindness had not been forthcoming, when you were so in need of a friend. Freda, I sometimes wonder if you have any feeling or heart at all."

A Vain Child

Freda pouted like a spoilt child. Though she was nearly nineteen, she had the face of a child of twelve—a very pretty child. Her figure was as undeveloped as her mind and face; she was dwarfish for her years.

"If you are going to be horrid and disagreeable, Olga, I shall wish I hadn't come. It's no use pretending that Lorry isn't an old frump, for she is, and I don't like her half so much as Mr. Bywater.

"I wonder what he does in New York? He never says a word about his business, and, do you know, I don't think Lorry knows. Such a funny thing that happened the other day makes me think so——"

"Freda, listen to me," interrupted Olga, speaking in a firm, authoritative voice. "I have something to say to you. You must listen; something serious——"

"I suppose you'll force me to listen, since you speak so sharply," said Freda resignedly. "But I do hate serious talk. Serious talk always means something horrid and disagreeable. Oh, did you see the man who passed the window just then? He came down in the same train with me.

"I saw him in New Rochelle station. He stared at me so that I thought he was going to speak—I'm sure he would have liked to," added Freda, with a self-complacent smile of intense vanity. "I believe he was rather smitten and wants to have another good stare at me, and that's why he passed just now——"

"More probably he is waiting for another train," said Olga, losing her patience, this foolish chatter jarring on her strained nerves almost intolerably. "Freda, listen to me. On the night when Mrs. March was found murdered——"

A swift look of fear leaped into the pretty childish face, and she put her fingers up quickly to her ears as if to shut out the words coming—the same startled gesture that this girl had made on the night to which Olga referred when the terrible cry of "Murder!" swept down to the ears from the noisy party in the flat above.

"Don't speak about that night—I am afraid when I think of it!" Freda whispered in a voice very different from the careless tones she had hitherto used. "You mustn't speak of that, Olga; it frightens me!"

"I must speak about it," said Olga. "Why should it frighten you? You must listen to what I am going to say. On that night, before the crime was discovered, Mr. Armadale, the artist, went up the staircase of the flat at 9 o'clock. It was quite dark. But he heard the door of the March flat open and a woman came out. He heard the rustle of her dress."

Freda was sitting like a statue, with fixed eyes of terror and a white face; her lips were slightly parted, but no sound issued from them.

"He spoke to her out of the darkness, and the woman gave a little cry, then darted swiftly past him down the stairs. She had the dead woman's jewelry in her hand—the jewelry that was afterward found by the police in our flat! Freda, you must answer me!" Olga cried, holding the girl's hands and looking intently into her face.

An Accuser

Freda was shrinking back with a look of absorbing fear, as though she read the words that Olga's lips were already framing: "Could you have told how they got there?" Olga paused.

No answer from the white-faced girl, though her lips moved spasmodically.

"You must tell me!" said Olga, insistently; then: "Were you that woman?"

"Olga! No, no! How dare you say that? How dare you accuse me?" Freda's wild denial was almost a scream; she snatched her hands free, and fumbled nervously with the ends of the feather boa she wore about her neck. "I'm sorry I came to see you! You're horrid to me today—perfectly horrid!"

"But Mr. Armadale is convinced that it was you!" said Olga in a low, strained voice, wrestling with her growing doubts, her eyes searching her sister's face.

Freda started violently, and the involuntary jerk of her nervous fingers almost twitched the light feather boa from her shoulders in her agitation.

"It isn't true! It isn't true!" she cried, her foot beating an almost hysterical tattoo on the floor. "I wasn't near Zingara's rooms that night. How can you say I was? It isn't true! Why, what—what are you staring at so?"

For Freda was suddenly becoming aware that Olga's eyes were bent intently upon something she was wearing—something that the disarranged feather boa had revealed to her.

Then swiftly Freda's hand went up to her throat, as if to hide that glittering thing, and a furtive look of cunning and fear came into her face. But her instinctive impulse to conceal the object that glittered from the accusing eyes bent upon her was too late.

A numbing horror and fear had overtaken Olga as she caught sight of that little tawdry trinket that she recognized beyond possibility of doubt, which Freda was wearing pinned at her throat. Olga's finger was pointing at it as she cried in a low, tense voice:

"If what you say is true, how is it that you are now wearing a brooch that belonged to the murdered dancer?"

As she was speaking the man whom Freda had referred to again passed the window of the waiting room.

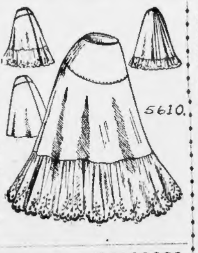
Hearst's Boston American Pattern

Ladies' Circular Short Petticoat



No. 5,610.—Nainsook, trimmed with embroidered flouncing, is shown in this design for an underskirt. The smooth adjustment over the hips renders it especially desirable for wear with the close fitting skirts, now so fashionable. The pattern provides for habit style, or inverted box pleat in the back, or plain gathers if desired. The use of the yoke is optional, as the skirt is fitted by darts. Cambric, linen, wash silk, and flannel are all used in making garments of this kind. The medium size will require 4⅞ yards of 36-inch material.

No. 5,610—Sizes for 22, 24, 26, 28, 30 and 32 inches waist measure.

To obtain this pattern, postpaid, send 10 cents and the size, name and address to HEARST'S BOSTON AMERICAN PATTERN DEPT., P. O. Box 230, Boston, Mass.

Itching Scalp, Dandruff and Falling Hair.

THESE symptoms indicate a diseased condition of the scalp and will always result in baldness if the condition is not corrected.

Every day adds to the number of men and women who have entirely lost their hair because of neglect. The hair can always be saved if proper treatment is administered in time, but after the hair roots are dead renewed growth is impossible. Don't delay until the hair is all gone, for nothing will grow hair on a shiny bald head.

At the Woodbury Institute treatment is given under the direct instructions of a specialist of long experience. Many thousands of cases are treated every year, and success is assured in every case.

MUSIC

SIMPLE LIFE

Above you see the frontispiece of the "Simple Life" Waltz. This is an original waltz, beautiful, effective and easy to play and highly lithographed on the best coated paper.

This piece is respectfully inscribed to Charles Wagner, of whose famous work President Roosevelt said: "I am preaching your book to my countrymen." The composer has infused into this musical composition the same lights, hopes and aspirations that pervade Mr. Wagner's prominent work.

From a meritorious as well as artistic point of view this piece is worth five times what we ask for it—

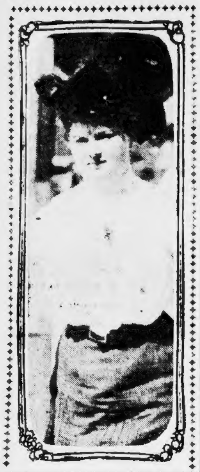
IS THIS YOUR PHOTO? YOU WIN $2 IF IT IS



The original of this snapshot will receive a reward of $2.

All You Have to Do Is to Identify It and the Money Is Yours.

PRETTY warm for shopping yesterday, wasn't it? Nevertheless the stores were thronged with busy women purchasers, for women have learned that these mid-season days present rare opportunities for bargains.

In spite of the heat and humidity the Camera Man was busy yesterday. Here's the snapshot he took about noontime in the vicinity of some store patronized by readers of this newspaper.

Do you know the original of this snapshot? If you do, tell her to call at the BOSTON AMERICAN office and receive the prize of $2 which is awaiting her.

There's no formality about the award of the prize. All you have to do is to identify the photo and the money is yours.

INDEPENDENCE LEAGUE STARTS IN FALL RIVER

Special to the Boston American.

FALL RIVER, Aug. 23.—Twenty citizens of Fall River met last night for the purpose of discussing the formation of an Independence League in this city. An explanation of the principles and purposes were made by State Secretary J. F. Davis.

President John Golden of the United Textile Workers of America said that he indorsed the movement and believed it would go hand in hand with that of the wage earners clubs now being formed throughout Massachusetts and would have a powerful effect on the future political situation of the State.

Object Lessons Count.

Thomas O'Donnell, secretary of the Mule Spinners' Union, said: "Fall River is a city in which the working men are always ready to unite politically for their friends and against their enemies." He said that but for Fall River there would have been no overtime bill and no such object lessons would have been given the people of the State as were given in the Legislature last Spring. He heartily approved of the principle of the Independence League.

Mr. Gardner, a prominent official of the Loom Fixers' Union, said: "Fall River workingmen showed what they were capable of doing when they organized the flying wedge in the Douglas campaign. That movement was not formed because they loved Douglas more, but Bates less. To-day they have the same use for Governor Guild, who appointed President Dana to the Superior Court for assisting in killing the overtime bill, that they then had for John L. Bates.

Myron Eldredge, a prominent officer of the Carpenters' Union, said that citizens of this city will be glad to unite with the rest of the State in a movement like this, which is opposed to graft and grafters. He said that he favored this movement as well as that of the wage earners' club.

"Elect Honest Men."

Joseph Jackson, former member of the State gypsy moth commission, said: "With the corruption which is rife in both of the great political parties, it is time that the independent citizens of Massachusetts organize to elect to public office only those who stand for honest government for and by the people."

The meeting was presided over by Matthew J. Maloney, president of the Central Labor Union of Fall River. It was unanimously voted to hold a mass meeting next Wednesday to which the public will be invited. At this time action will be taken toward the organization of the Independence League of Fall River. Several out of town speakers will be present.

NEWS OF LABOR.

The executive board of the Boston Wage Earners' Central Club met last night and drew up a constitution to be reported at the next meeting of the club, August 31. General laws were also adopted providing working rules for the several ward clubs, providing for revenue for running clubs, against action of indorsing candidates for office, provisions for meetings, for furnishing speakers and literature to local clubs, and a pledge of candidates to the principles adopted by the club. The regular meetings of the executive board will be held Wednesday evenings hereafter.

ELECTRICAL WORKERS.

John J. McLaughlin, J. W. Barton and Martin T. Joyce were chosen by Electrical Workers' Union No. 103 last night as delegates to the New England District Convention of Electrical Workers, to be held Sunday, September 9, at Stamford, Ct. M. T. Joyce and W. A. Mellett were elected delegates to the Building Trades Section of the Central Labor Union.

Resolutions of regret were passed on the death of Brother A. W. Cogswell, who died recently at Watertown, Col. The resolutions will be sent to his wife and children, and the charter will be draped for thirty days. Grand Secretary-Treasurer of the International Brotherhood, Peter W. Collins, spoke on "Trades Unionism."

EIGHT HOURS FOR PRESSMEN.

Printing Pressmen's Union received a communication from the board of directors of the National Association at last night's meeting stating that the campaign in the interests of the eight-hour movement was progressing most favorably. The assessment for the eight hour movement is being paid by all the members. Five candidates were admitted. It was decided to hold a smoke talk at the next meeting.

TO ASK BANGS TO HEAR LABOR

Electrical Workers' Union No. 103 voted at last night's meeting to request Alderman Bangs, chairman of the committee on municipal lighting, to give a committee from the union an opportunity to appear and refute some statements made by Counsel Everett W. Burdett of the lighting trust before the committee and explain some of the technical points used by him to mystify that body. The committee will be armed with documentary evidence to prove its statements.

D'ANNUNZIO INVENTS NEW MOTOR WHEEL

FLORENCE, Aug. 23.—After inventing a toilet water Gabriel d'Annunzio, the Italian playwright, has now turned his attention to the automobile wheel. The poet has invented a wheel constructed on a special plan which does away with the need of pneumatic tires, and it is at the same time non-skidding.

The Man That the Crab Meat Killed

Beware of Sea Food Carelessly Handled. Learn a Lesson in Human Nature

Professor H. W. Hart of New York City was an authority on diet.

He could tell you what was good and bad for your system, what to eat and what not to eat.

He ate some crab meat at Atlantic City and died of ptomaine poisoning.

What do we learn from this?

First, that all sea food, fish or shellfish, is extremely dangerous unless cared for with the greatest conscientiousness and skill.

The sea produces food in great abundance—not the best of food by any means—but in supplies unlimited. That which is easily produced is easily destroyed—spoiled.

Nothing becomes so quickly unfit for human consumption as the products of the sea—this proves the wisdom of that great old law-giver, Moses. He really DID understand diet. And there is the greatest wisdom in his laws—and you must understand that he wrote for people who never saw an icebox.

If Moses had seen the icemaking machine, or if he had lived in a country where ice could be had, his laws would have been varied with many instructions as to refrigeration.

From the crab meat that killed the diet scientist you learn to look out for those foods of the sea, and never to touch them unless you KNOW the character of the place or the man of whom you buy.

The sad death of Professor Hart, killed by the sea food that he would have forbidden anybody else to eat, teaches us that PREACHING AND PRACTISING ARE TWO DIFFERENT ARTS.

The intellect, studying and comparing impartially, without any appetite or any temptation, tells others what to do.

And then the stomach and that queer pneumogastric nerve, running from the stomach to the front brain and suggesting all kinds of foolishness, comes along and gives contrary orders.

The man whose intellect tells him what to do allows his stomach to override his brain when hungry time comes, and a catastrophe is in order.

The sad story of the drunkard who first politely and then sternly refused to take the temperance tract from the old lady, finally saying, "Madam, I wrote it," is repeated all through history.

Mohammed in his teachings has made millions of men teetotalers. Yet he drank to excess, and we are assured by the good monks, who found a moral in his death, that he died drunk upon a muck heap, eaten alive by hogs that found him there—surely a sad death for a teetotaler! But that did not keep him from making a great many temperate men by his teachings.

The Germans say, "The higher the mountain, the deeper the valley."

We may truly say, the greater the knowledge of diet, the greater the danger of dying from eating crab meat.

We are all poor, imperfect things, struggling to improve, trying to teach and encourage one another.

Let us be grateful for good teaching, even if we cannot get a perfect example with the teaching. And let us not be guilty of the childish folly of rejecting the truth because it comes from the mouth of a man who does not live wisely; let us gladly take the jewel from the head of the ugly toad.

Really Worth Reading

Keep These Thoughts When You Throw Away the Rest of This Newspaper

There are some people who ride all through the journey of life with their backs to the horses. They are always looking into the past. All the worth of things is there. They are forever talking about the good old times, and how different things were when they were young. There is no romance in the world now, and no heroism. The very Winters and Summers are nothing to what they used to be; in fact, life is altogether on a small, commonplace scale. . . . Now, that is a miserable sort of thing; it brings a kind of paralyzing chill over the life, and petrifies the natural spring of joy that should be ever leaping up to meet the fresh new mercies that the days keep bringing. BROOKE HERFORD.

There is something better than pleasure—progress. Pleasure, mere pleasure, is animal. God gives that to the butterfly. But progress is the law of life to the immortal. So God has arranged our life as progress, and its working principle is evolution. HENRY DRUMMOND.

If a man really loves truth, if he be a disciple of progress, he will not permit himself to state his belief in the same terms year after year. As every year brings new experiences, so should it offer fresh interpretation of life. The genuine truth-seeker is more eager to keep the mind open than to arrive at some established conclusion: He hopes never to have any permanently settled beliefs, for he contemplates an eternity of intellectual progress. What a glorious prospect—the everlasting pursuit of truth! HORATIO W. DRESSER.

Little Editorials from the People

THE MONEY QUESTION AGAIN

Editor BOSTON AMERICAN:

"J. K. L., Chelsea," in replying to my original question, "Why should the government borrow money when it has the sole power to create it?" states that "the government does not have sole power to 'create' money," to which statement I would take exceptions and refer him for proof to Section 8, Clause 5, Constitution of the United States, "Congress shall have power to coin money, regulate the value thereof, etc.," which has never been changed. Now did not the so-called "gold basis" come from the renting back to the government of its own money and demanding "gold" interest in return? If the government has sole power to "coin" money, why didn't it coin this last $90,000,000 for the Panama canal instead of borrowing back what it has already "coined" and paying "gold" for the reusing of it?

If this goes on as it has the volume of money in circulation will be too small and finally get into the hands of the very few and the greatest panic of all history will be here soon. The remedy, of course, will be the issuing of more government or "fiat" money, but it will have to be done through electing Senators who are not Wall street tools, and who will not force the country into another crisis by refusing to allow another issue of Constitutional money. My correspondent further states that "it is not the government stamp on the money that makes it money." Tiffany's Treatise on Government, page 223, says: "The value of money arises from the government stamp, whether the coin shall be metal, silver, leather, parchment, paper or any other substance is a question of expediency."

The only real money is a receipt for so much labor, not a receipt for so much metal. It has no value in itself, being only a legal commodity to measure values. There is no value in a pound weight, or a yard of themselves, they being legal measures of weight and length. So with it must be paid from the press to a commodious receipt for so much measured labor to make it legal tender, and the metals have crept in so that private banks can have a basis of their own and control the circulation.

The people's money has been taken out of the people's treasury and deposited into private banks for their exclusive use, and everything has been done to corner the market and precipitate another loan, but the real issue, "people's money vs. banker's money," will soon come into politics and the country be redeemed from the manipulation of the government finances by private individuals.

Benjamin Franklin and Thomas Jefferson saw the trouble over a century ago; Andrew Jackson stamped out the ungodly crime of usury during his time; Abraham Lincoln saw it and was a martyr to the cause, and James A. Garfield was cut off just about as he was to cleanse the country and reinstate the finance of the government in the hands of the government instead of Wall street and its parasites.

Postal savings banks, the officers of which will only receive a stated salary, thus preventing them from making enormous incomes from the people's deposits, will soon be instituted, and this will allow the people to have something to say about their money through the ballot and referendum. When money is stringent public works will be begun, like the Panama canal, and money "coined" to give us a receipt for labor, thus enlarging the circulation and giving work to the unemployed, and there never could be any hard times. But heretofore the money kings could hoard up all the money and do as they pleased. The only time the Saviour apparently lost his peace of mind was when He drove the money lenders out of the Temple.

May the "Saviours" of this century rise in their great majority and drive out the money lenders of the present time and reestablish "real" money in season to avert the oncoming panic. If I am wrong in any statement I respectfully beg to be corrected, but I did not get an answer that satisfied me, so ask for further information by stating my opinions. "W. H. L."

Heat Crazed

By Wex Jones

IF only I were a seal,
I would dive under iceberg and floe,
And never come up to the top
Unless it were going to snow.

Or were I a polar bear,
And happened to have the price,
I'd breakfast and lunch and dine
On hashed and fricasseed ice.

And had I the wings of a bird,
I would fly like a dart to my goal—
And, removing my socks, I would perch
On top of the icicly pole.

If I had but a shovel and pick,
I would dig a ten-thousand-foot well,
Down there out of reach of the sun,
For ages and ages to dwell.

But I'm boiling and stewing and crazed,
My head buzzes round with the heat;
No more I get frostbitten looks,
And I can't get a touch of cold feet.

The busiest housekeeper should always find time to read some interesting book or an extra choice of poetry daily. The cares of the day fold up their tents like Arabs and silently skiddoo (Longfellow) on reading some lofty verse such as "Eve":

The day is nearly over; it is Eve;
The stars above make heaven like a sieve;
Who is there, with howe'er a wicked face,
But at this season feels no longer blase?

Little deeds of kindness keep the whole world sweet (Emerson), and one should do the best possible for the janitor and his wife. Anything you want, send them with a polite note; anything you don't want, keep for yourself. And, by the way, "esquire" is de rigueur in addressing the janitor.

A simple home remedy for a headache is a bit of scandal about a neighbor. For muddy hands, soap and water is invaluable. A needle thrust suddenly into the sufferer's leg will make him forget the worst case of toothache. If you can't sleep at night, cut out sleeping days.

College and club colors are very popular among young men, and add a touch of smartness. Good selections may be had at reasonable prices in most stores, but youths should be careful to select a college with becoming colors.

It is very gauche to wear life-preservers when canoeing. It seems to indicate a lack of confidence in the ability of the girl to save you in case of an upset.

"Gauche" is derived from "goat," and is the Parisian way of saying you're a goat.

Death's Protest

BY

Ella Wheeler Wilcox

WHY dost thou shrink from my approach, oh man?
Why dost thou ever flee in fear, and cling
To my false rival, Life? I do but bring
Thee rest and calm. Then wherefore dost thou ban
And curse me? Since the forming of God's plan
I have not hurt or harmed a mortal thing;
I have bestowed sweet balm for every sting
And peace eternal for earth's stormy span
The wild mad prayers for comfort sent in vain
To knock at the indifferent heart of Life
I, Death, have answered. Knowest thou not 'tis he,
My cruel rival, who sends all thy pain
And wears the soul out in unending strife?
Why dost thou hold to him, then, spurning me?

I took Matilda for a ride
In my new runabout;

We hadn't gone a mile before
We had a falling out.

I loved Matilda dearly, so
I started, right away,

To patch it up between us, but
It took me half a day.
